

Man Releases Prayer During Direct Tornado Hit, 70 Survive

Amid the barrage of tornadoes that plagued the center of the United States, 118 reported in a 48-hour span, many people in the storm's path were lifting up prayers to the Lord for protection.

For the 70 workers at the Garner Industries building in Lincoln, Nebraska, they had one co-worker looking to God as the EF-3 tornado ripped their building to shreds.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

"You can hear things are just shaking," Nate Hutchinson told KLKN-TV. "And everything just came down on top of us, just instantly."

The age old advice which has gotten many a weary Christian through difficult times proved to be the most logical thing for Hutchinson to do as he looked death in the face: when in doubt, pray it out.

"There's nothing I can do right now except literally just pray to God that I don't die because I'm not in control of anything at this point," he said. "It's just hopefully I don't get crushed."

As the tornado pummeled the building, ripping the roof clean off and collapsing the building around the 70 workers on the premise, not to mention the deafening roar of the storm and screeching of tearing metal, not a one of them were killed by the impact.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Another eyewitness, Toby Baker, ran shelter amid the collapsing degrees, and walked away from the building to tell about.

“All of a sudden the building starts shaking. I took off running, things flying by my head. I got in the bathroom right as the whole building collapses,” Baker says.

As reported by KLKN, “Officials say three people were injured, though none of the injuries were life-threatening.”

“The one that seemed the scariest, the dude’s face was covered in blood, but he was up and moving around,” Hutchinson recalls.

The Bible never tells us that we won’t experience trials and tribulations through life, but that God is there with us to offer protection and hope in the face of these hardships.

For all 70 employees to survive such a dangerous event as they did, Hutchinson now has an amazing testimony to share about how God protected him and his coworkers from the jaws of death.

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

James Lasher is Staff Writer for Charisma Media