

Megachurch Blesses Organizations, Families With $3.5 Million

Christmas came early for the congregation of Transformation Church in Bixby, Oklahoma, and the people they blessed with $3.5 million in gifts Sunday.

The megachurch, pastored by Michael and Natalie Todd, encouraged its congregation and community with a Giving Spree Sunday service in which Transformation blessed families and nonprofits with debt forgiveness and even a new house for one especially downtrodden and deserving family.

Pastor Mike Todd posted on his Instagram:

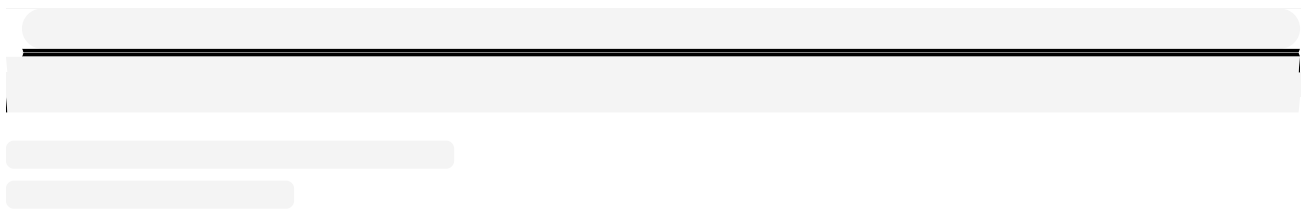

“3.5 MILLION DOLLARS GIVEN AWAY TODAY.”

He shared the tear-filled responses from his members of his congregation receiving parts of the blessing, saying:

“TC NATION – YOU DID THIS! I’m so proud to lead such a generous church!”

The generosity is having a ripple effect, inspiring others to start their own “blessing train” as one Twitter user calls it:

Listening to this. I wanna bless someone! Let's do a blessing train drop your $cashapp, then repost and bless someone else. I have crazy faith for financial freedom for my family so that I can bless others! #goanddothesame #transformationchurch

Wow. And all for the glory of God! It's been such a beautiful and empowering thing to witness!

Go and do the same!

In total, some 15,000 people donated to the offering.

“God has been so faithful to this church. He’s been so faithful to Transformation nation... Last week, we gathered as a church to give in an end of the year offering that we call our ‘crazy faith’ offering,” White said during his sermon. “And I want to tell you a total right now, but the truth is people are still giving. The level of faithfulness in the middle of a pandemic... We had over 15,000 people participate in actually giving.”

Last year, Transformation Church’s “crazy faith offering” was $1.2 million, and this year, members challenged themselves to do more. {eoa}
