

Miracle at In-N-Out: Father Shot in the Head Drives Wife and Children to Safety With Bullet Lodged in His Skull

Chaos erupted outside an In-N-Out Burger drive-thru on Feb. 9 when gunfire tore through a family's vehicle, striking 28-year-old Marcio Garcia in the head while his wife and two young sons sat beside him.

What followed stunned doctors, investigators and everyone close to the family.

According to a report from Fox News, Garcia somehow remained conscious after the bullet entered his head, driving his wounded family away from danger and to safety before seeking medical treatment himself.

More than three months later, on Wednesday, May 14, Oregon police announced the arrests of two suspects connected to the shooting.
