Prophetic or Pathetic? ‘Prophets’ Tell Fortunes, for a Fee

As darkness continues to envelop the world, Christians have been warring spiritually against the demonic influence taking root in people’s hearts.

With this battle comes false prophets, whom the Bible warns about in both the Old and New Testaments. Now, many are being deceived by these “pay for prophecy” prophets and allowing spiritual strongholds into their lives.

It is not through the Holy Spirit that many of these false teachers gain their insights, but through divination and demonic revelation.

Rihanna: The Latest Celebrity to Mock Christianity

Rihanna is the latest celebrity to mock Christianity with her nun-themed outfit.

As Fox News reported, the singer’s provocative outfit was for a cover of “Interview Magazine.” It was a play against the devout Catholic women who have sworn to a life of celibacy and following God. Wearing a plunging neckline and heavy makeup with a black and white habit is far from the normal attire that nuns adhere to. Yet, this is the look Rihanna chose for her next feature image.

Rihanna has received backlash on social media for the look. Some have called the look “disgusting” and “poor in taste.”
