

Morning Rundown: Robert Morris: 'I Don't Need a Prophet'

Here's a quick summary of the top stories on :

Robert Morris: 'I Don't Need a Prophet'

I heard Robert Morris, Senior Pastor at Gateway Church in Southlake, Texas, tell of an individual approaching him and saying, "You have a lot of good leaders around you, but you don't have a prophet." Morris said he replied, "I don't need a prophet; I have the Holy Spirit."

Morris obviously understands the great difference between the function of prophecy under the Old Covenant and now under the New.

With the inauguration of the New Covenant and the coming of the Holy Spirit at Pentecost, everything changed. Understanding this change is vital for the contemporary church to walk in truth and experience the fulness of prophetic ministry.

Is Coldplay Classic a God-Based Song?

The song "Fix You" by British rock band Coldplay was written more than 17 years ago, but its emotional lyrics continues to make an impact on culture and society today.

The band made its seventh appearance on Saturday Night Live recently, and for their final performance on the show, they performed an emotional medley of their songs "Human Heart" from 2021 and "Fix You."

"Fix You," a song written by the entire band, was inspired by lead singer Chris Martin's efforts to comfort then-wife

Gwyneth Paltrow following the death of her father Bruce, reported.

Divisions & Deception Headlining 2023 State of the Union

There are few times in American history when the Bible verses of Romans 16:17-18 have been more relevant than they are today.

“Now I urge you, brothers, to closely watch those who cause divisions and offenses, contrary to the teaching which you have learned, and avoid them. For such people do not serve our Lord Jesus Christ, but their own appetites, and through smooth talk and flattery they deceive the hearts of the unsuspecting.”

As President Joe Biden gets set to give his 2023 State of the Union address, Americans are still struggling under the pressures of inflation, rising gas prices and food costs, as well as division in the social, political, cultural, racial and spiritual spheres of the country. Not to mention the recent Chinese spy balloon that gripped the country's attention as it traversed the majority of the continental United States, until it was finally shot down over the East Coast. {eoa}

Bring Charisma magazine home with a subscription today!