

Muslims Protest Quran Burning on US Base in Afghanistan

(Reuters/Bazuki Muhammad)

Muslim demonstrators display placards during a rally to protest against a Quran-burning incident in Afghanistan, outside the U.S. embassy in Kuala Lumpur on Friday. President Barack Obama apologized on Thursday for the burning of copies of the Islam's holy book on a U.S. base in Afghanistan, an incident that has triggered far more outcry than another shocking incident: the emergence of a video last month showing Marines urinating on the corpses of what appear to be dead Taliban fighters.