

Nearly 2 Dozen Injured in Church Bus Crash

Twenty people were injured when the bus carrying them rolled over on a highway in southern California on Sunday, authorities said.

The bus was part of a convoy taking about 200 people from a retreat in the Big Bear recreation area back to a church in Downey, California, local media reported.

The accident occurred in San Bernardino County on highway 330, the San Bernardino County Fire Department said, without going into details on what cause it.

Six people suffered major injuries, but none were thought to be life-threatening, authorities added. {eo}
