

Netanyahu: 'Israel will stand alone'

There is only one path forward for the embattled prime minister of Israel: the return of the hostages taken during the Oct. 7, massacre and the complete elimination of the terrorist organization known as Hamas.

As the world recoiled from the horrors observed as Hamas paraded the dead bodies of young Israeli women through the streets, many said it was only a matter of time until the media, and the world, would turn against Israel in their retaliatory strikes against those who carried out the worst massacre of the Jewish people since the Holocaust.

Now, as the International Criminal Court in the Hague weighs the option of issuing arrest warrants to some of Israel's top officials, Netanyahu brazenly defied them during his address on Holocaust Remembrance Day, and anyone else who stand in the path of Israel ensuring her and her people's safety in the future.

"From here in Jerusalem, I am sending a very clear-cut message: you will not chain our hands and even if Israel has to stand alone, it will stand alone and will continue to fight our enemies until victory," Netanyahu told the world.

In the speech, Netanyahu switched between speaking Hebrew and English, but the message remained the same, Jews may have been unarmed and powerless during the Holocaust, but this is no longer the case.

"No nation came to our aid. Today again, we face enemies bent on our destruction. I say to the leaders of the world: no amount of pressure... will stop Israel from defending itself. As prime minister, I pledge here today from Jerusalem on this Holocaust Remembrance Day, if Israel is forced to stand alone, Israel will stand alone," the prime minister roared.

"We will defeat our genocidal enemies. Never again is now."

The path forward certainly appears to be a lonely one for Israel, as her once-closest ally, the United States of America, has bowed before the radical anti-Israel forces.

The Biden administration has maintained their position of being against an invasion of the city of Rafah, which began Tuesday, Apr. 7.

In response to the march of Israeli tanks and armored personnel carriers, the United States halted a large arms transfer to Israel, which the nation badly needs in her war against Hamas.

As reported by Reuters, "President Joe Biden's decision to hold up delivery of high payload munitions to Israel was taken over a possible Israeli offensive in Rafah that Washington believes could put Palestinian civilians at risk, Defense Secretary Lloyd Austin said on Wednesday."

Republican Senator Lindsay Graham slammed Biden for making the call, telling Fox News, "This is the worst possible signal to send to all the bad guys. That America would be withholding weapons and ammunition to the Jewish State who's under siege on multiple fronts. That is just inciting more violence."

Perhaps Netanyahu's words were prophetic without him even realizing it.

With an unexpectedly large amount of American's who identify as Christian or are right-leaning politically turning against Israel, perhaps these are the days leading up to the end times prophecy when the world will enter into a period of Tribulation, Israel stands alone and the world sees the revelation of the Antichrist's rise into power.

There is one certainty among all of this of course, and that is the covenant that God made with Abraham in the book of Genesis is alive and well today, and His hand of protection is upon His people.
