

New ISIS Leader Declares War on Israel: 'Attack the Jews and Slaughter Them'

ISIS announced that it has a new leader and a new mission: to kill the Jews.

The terror group released an audio recording on Monday of a spokesman for new ISIS leader Sheikh Abu Ibrahim Al-Hashemi Al-Qurashi calling on members to attack Jews and thwart the Israeli-Palestinian "Deal of the Century" peace process.

It is the second audio recording sent out since the United States killed former ISIS leader Abu Bakr al-Baghdadi in October.

The spokesman said that although some in the West believe ISIS was destroyed the moment Baghdadi died, "we are still here, and we are ready to start a 'new stage'—hitting Israeli targets."

He ordered ISIS operatives in the Sinai and Syria to attack Israelis in their homes with numerous weapons, including chemical weapons.

"Oh soldiers of the caliphate everywhere, especially in beloved Sinai and blessed Syria, go for the Israeli settlements and marketplaces. Turn them into lands for testing your weapons and chemical rockets and other types [of weapons]. To the Muslims in Palestine and all countries: Be a spearhead in the war against the Jews and in thwarting their plans and their 'Deal of the Century,'" Al-Qurashi said according to a translation provided by the Middle East Media Research Institute (MEMRI).

President Donald Trump is set to release the long-awaited peace plan on Tuesday after meeting with both Israeli Prime Minister Benjamin Netanyahu and rival Blue and White leader Benny Gantz at the White House.

Al-Qurashi said now is the time to slaughter Jews both inside and outside of Israel.
