

Over 2,200 Unborn Babies' Remains Found in Dead Abortionist's Home

More than 2,200 bodies of unborn babies were found preserved in a deceased abortionist's home.

Ulrich Klopfer was a practicing abortionist in South Bend, Indiana, until his license was revoked in 2016, according to CBN News. After Klopfer's death on Sept. 3, his family discovered medically preserved remains of fetuses in his house in Illinois. They alerted authorities to what they found.

Indiana legislators are now demanding an investigation, reports Life News.

"The revelation of over 2,200 fetal remains being found on the property of the late Dr. Klopfer in Illinois is seriously disturbing," says State Rep. Ron Bacon, R-Chandler. "Since these remains were found in Illinois, we are very concerned there may be other remains in the Indiana clinics where he performed abortions."

Dr. James Dobson responded to the news by calling Christians to weep over what society has become:

Abortion requires the acceptance of the lie that certain lives are disposable. It's a lie that defies the human conscience, which is why Americans across this nation are appalled to learn that the remains of 2,246 aborted children were found at the home of deceased abortionist Dr. Ulrich Klopfer.

These are not trophies, though this deeply disturbed abortionist may have regarded them as such. Nor are these clumps of tissue or bundles of cells, though abortion advocates would have us believe as much.

Instead, these are the remains of children, of boys and girls. These were precious lives, made in the image of God. These would have been classmates and co-workers, loved ones and spouses.

We should mourn their loss ... and our loss. We should weep at what we as a society have become, because we allowed this to continue. And we must turn from the lie that life is ever disposable, and embrace the sanctity of human life, at every stage.

May God help us.

According to CBN News, March for Life President Jeanne Mancini says this case reminds her of that of Kermit Gosnell, “who was convicted of murdering born-alive infants slated for abortion. Like Gosnell, Ulrich Klopfer had a long and troubling history of ‘willful, intentional and detrimental’ noncompliance with state regulations and his disregard for those regulations intended to protect women and minor girls was appalling. He admitted to performing an abortion on a 10-year-old, whom he sent back into an abusive situation afterward.” {eoa}
