

Pastor Behind Viral Trump Prophecy: 'You Could See the Prayers'

Pastor Lorenzo Sewell went viral after he prayed and prophesied during Pres. Trump's inauguration. Now, he's telling his story and the powerful ways God is working through his life.

"People would look at my life and they would say, 'How could God use a kid from the east side of Detroit to pray over a president?'" Sewell told Charisma Media.

Sewell's journey—from the crime-ridden streets of Detroit to the pulpit and the national stage—reveals the transformative power of Christ and the deep significance of prayer in America's destiny.

Sewell was radically changed by the power of God after encountering a security guard in Daytona Beach, Florida, who prayed for him. He then immediately felt the conviction of the Holy Spirit come upon him. After this, Sewell, who was a drug dealer at the time, made his way to a church, gave his life to Christ and was baptized in the Holy Spirit.

Now, years later, Sewell not only has seen God turn his life around for good, but his life now is marked by his viral Inauguration Day prayer that captivated millions across the nation. Speaking on freedom and liberation having come to America, Sewell also saw something incredible happen during this time.

“The moment when I looked up into that was almost as if Jesus was taking the prayers of our forefathers,” he says. “You could see the prayers like the cloud of prayer.

“It was almost as if you could see the prayers, the cloud of glory, all the prayers of our forefathers of those that have been believing God.”

For Pastor Sewell, the moment in Washington was not about politics but about the fulfillment of God answering His people’s prayers. His message is clear: when the people of God pray, nations shift. Voices like Sewell remind us that prayer remains the most powerful force in shaping the future.
