

Perry Stone Issues Urgent Prophetic Warning to the Church

Perry Stone is sounding the alarm of government persecution against churches, particularly about homosexuality.

“MAJOR ALERT: I have just been informed of a major plan by the extreme left, that has the support over 100 House members and numerous Senators, that if passed would make it a crime for churches and ministers to publically (sic) say the gay lifestyle is a sin, or not allow them to use your church for their own meetings,” Perry Stone Ministries posted on Facebook.

Indeed, a handful of states do have such laws on the books.

Police arrested Kentucky Chaplain David Wells for telling inmates homosexuality was a sin, according to Fox News.

A city ordinance in Idaho demanded pastors perform same-sex ceremonies or go to jail.

Former Atlanta fire chief Kelvin Cochran lost his job for calling homosexuality an “impure” lifestyle.

While a spokesperson for Perry Stone Ministries could not be reached regarding the specific bill to which the post referred, it is well-documented many consider the battle for gay rights to be the new civil rights frontier.

Furthermore, Democrats actively seek to expand the Civil Rights Act of 1964 with the Equality Act to include LGBT people.

According to the Washington Post, the proposal would grant gay people the same protections African-Americans and other minorities have from discrimination in employment, credit, the housing market, jury selection and other public accommodations.

Perry Stone Ministries' post faults the spirit of Jezebel for the onslaught of sexual perversion.

"There is serious government persecution coming to all who stand for truth, and when the 'left' becomes violent, as did the men of Sodom against Lot, threatening to rape him for his rebuke of their iniquity, God will change the game and the United States hedge will be removed and catastrophic natural disasters will be unleashed (sic)," the post reads.
