

Police Say 'Holy Spirit' Protected a Speeding Driver

Police in the German border town of Viersen have revealed that a speeding driver was spared a hefty fine because of the "Holy Spirit."

The rogue motorist was prevented from receiving a penalty after traveling at nearly 15 mph over the speed limit. Being that liberal with the throttle would have landed them with the equivalent of a $122 ticket fine if it hadn't been for the arrival of a white dove that swooped in on their behalf.

"It was no coincidence the Holy Spirit" intervened, the police said in their official statement on the matter, noting that the person's identity was impossible to determine after the rare bird flew across the windshield, perfectly blocking the offender's face.

Click here to read the rest of this story from our content partners at Faithwire.