

Pro-Bowler Antrel Rolle Inks NFL Deal After Sign From God

Antrel Rolle was a free agent playing for the New York Giants before God called a different play.

He was considering a move but knew he needed divine intervention for direction.

“God, I pray that you just give me a level head. I pray that you just give me a sign to lead me in the right direction, and I’ll follow your lead,” he tells CBS Sports of the night before he made a decision.

Lo and behold, an Orbitz ad appeared for Chicago—home of the Bears.

“I’m like, ‘Wow,’” he tells WFAN co-hosts Joe Benigno and Evan Roberts. “You know what I mean? And it just hit (me). I never question God’s plan for me, man.”

The free-agent safety now has a three-year deal with the Bears. It’s worth $ million with $5 million guaranteed, according to Fox Sports.