

Proof: At Least 6 Radical Leftists Knew That Charlie Kirk Would Be Assassinated

It appears that a lot of people had advance knowledge of the plot to kill Charlie Kirk. In fact, quite a few of them seemed to know that the assassination attempt would specifically take place on September 10th. As word of what Tyler Robinson was planning to do got around, some of the people that were aware of what was going to happen just couldn't resist bragging about it on social media. Of course now they are prime suspects as law enforcement authorities attempt to find everyone that was involved.

On Monday, the FBI announced that it is attempting to determine if Tyler Robinson was "aided and abetted" by an "extended network."

The FBI said Monday it suspects Charlie Kirk's killer Tyler Robinson could have been "aided and abetted" by an "extended network" – alluding to "multiple warning signs" he gave leading up to the assassination.

As The Post reported Sunday, law enforcement was already probing whether pro-trans online groups, sexualized animal-obsessed "furries" and others connected with Robinson had advance knowledge of his alleged murderous plans.

The groups include the online gaming community Steam as well as Armed Queers SLC, which took down its Instagram page after Kirk was murdered.

Based on the social media evidence that we now have, I think that it is quite clear that there was an “extended network”.

The Washington Free Beacon published a story about this that is getting a ton of attention, and the Gateway Pundit, Infowars and the Daily Mail have also helped get this information out to a wide audience.

In this article, I would like to summarize the most compelling evidence that has emerged so far.

On August 6th, a Twitter user known as “altulige” posted a message that warned that September 10th “will be a very interesting day.”

Another account posted on August 6—more than a month before the shooting—that “september 10th will be a very interesting day.” After Kirk’s assassination, the account followed up: “I plead the fifth.”

The morbid quip was reposted by an account named “churbum75m (SAW TYLER JUNE 30),” who appears to follow Robinson’s roommate, Lance Twiggs, on TikTok, where Twiggs’s username is “lanclotl.”

There was no specific mention of Charlie Kirk in this post, but it definitely seems super suspicious.

Subsequently, on September 3rd another Twitter user posted that it would “be funny if someone like charlie kirk got shot on september 10th.”

‘itd be funny if someone like charlie kirk got shot on september 10th LMAO,’ an X account user named @TallyHallAlbum, posted on September 3.

They went on to appear to make a threat on the President’s life, adding: ‘Donald Trump. December 14th.’

How did this person know that Charlie Kirk would get shot on September 10th?

Law enforcement authorities really need to talk to this particular individual.

Two days later, on September 5th, a Twitter user that appears to be tied into the LGBT community in Utah posted a message that ominously declared that "something BIG" is coming and that "you'll know it when you see it."

A number of the accounts being probed appear to be associated with LGBT subcultures, as one user, 'Osamu bin Tezuka,' used the X handle '@fujoshincel' – a reference to an anime genre that illustrates romantic relationships between males.

On September 5, that user wrote alongside a winky face emoji: 'You guys... I have something BIG coming soon. Just be sure to check the news, you'll know it when you see it.'

On the day of Kirk's death, they reposted it, stating: 'Well that's that.'

Obviously, the follow up post confirms that his initial post was about the plot to shoot Charlie Kirk.

This is another individual that should be brought in for questioning as soon as possible.

On September 9th, a Twitter user that actually attends Utah Valley University stated that "Charlie Kirk is coming to my college tomorrow", and in a subsequent message he warned that "something big will happen tomorrow."

An account with the handle "NajraGalvz" posted on September 9, "Charlie Kirk is coming to my college tomorrow I rlly hope someone evaporates him literally."

A few hours later, they added the update, "Lets just say something big will happen tomorrow," with an image of a dog that appears to be grinning.

I reported on this particular individual shortly after the shooting took place.

If law enforcement authorities have not talked to him by now, I am not sure what they are doing.

The day before the shooting, a TikTok user "who appears to be transgender" also posted a very ominous message about Charlie Kirk's visit to Utah Valley University.

Additionally, another TikTok user "who appears to be transgender," according to the Free Beacon, posted a video the night before the shooting stating, "charles james kirk...does not know what's coming tomorrow."

"Be ready...," wrote user @definitelynotjacks0n, adding, "this isn't a threat it's a promise."

This is a clear admission that this individual knew in advance what was about to happen.

Lastly, the Gateway Pundit has pointed out that a month before the assassination someone posted two SoundCloud tracks that clearly indicate foreknowledge of an attempt on Charlie Kirk's life.

Perhaps most disturbingly, a Utah-based transgender individual using the name Skye Valadez released a SoundCloud track titled "Charlie Kirk Dead at 31" a full month before the assassination, along with another called "Charlie Kirk's Death Isn't Enough for Me."

Why would SoundCloud allow someone to post something like this in the first place?

If I was the FBI, I would be looking at everyone that Tyler Robinson was in contact with during the weeks leading up to the shooting.

This is not something that Tyler Robinson decided to do at the last minute.

In fact, the FBI is now telling us that Robinson left a note at his place of residence that stated that he intended to "take out Charlie Kirk."

Charlie Kirk's alleged assassin Tyler Robinson wrote a note saying he was going to 'take out' the conservative commentator before he shot him dead, according to the FBI director.

'I have the opportunity to take out Charlie Kirk and I'm going to take it,' the suspect said, Kash Patel revealed during an appearance on Fox News on Monday morning.

'The note was written before the shooting, it was in the suspect's partner's home,' Patel added.

This was not the man that Robinson was raised to become.

But once Robinson left home, he got sexually involved with a transgender radical named Lance Twiggs that reportedly "hates conservatives and Christians."

A report from FOX News says alleged assassin Tyler Robinson's transgender partner "hates conservatives and Christians," per a female relative.

According to the report, the alleged assassin's partner is 22-years of age, the same as Robinson.

The relative said, "He hated us. He was not raised that way, but he, over the years, has become really detached [and] been radicalized."

Tyler Robinson developed a tremendous hatred for conservatives and Christians because the man that he was having sex with had a tremendous hatred for conservatives and Christians.

Following the shooting, Tyler Robinson went online and confessed his crime to his friends in the local LGBT community.

The 22-year-old suspect in Charlie Kirk's killing appears to have confessed to friends in an online chat shortly before turning himself in to law enforcement, according to two people familiar with the chat and screenshots obtained by The Washington Post.

"Hey guys, I have bad news for you all," said a message from an account belonging to the suspect, Tyler Robinson, on the online platform Discord. "It was me at UVU yesterday. im sorry for all of this."

What we believe has consequences.

Tyler Robinson deeply immersed himself in a community that has a passionate hatred for conservative leaders such as Charlie Kirk.

Over time, he got to a point where he felt like killing Charlie Kirk was the right thing to do.

Of course Tyler Robinson is not an isolated case.

All over America, millions of young people are being brainwashed.

There will be more political violence, and those that are doing the brainwashing will continue to deny that they are responsible.

For years, I have been warning about the rising tide of hatred that we are seeing all over America.

A new era of domestic terrorism is here, and conservatives and Christians will be targeted.
