

Prophetic Alert: Super Bowl's Secret Witchcraft Exposed

While the Lord Almighty was praised during the Super Bowl, there unfortunately were other dark and dangerous spiritual forces at work that day.

In a stunning prophetic update, Tomi Arayomi raised alarms over a spiritual battle that took place during this year's Super Bowl, claiming that witchcraft—specifically voodoo—was being used against star quarterback Patrick Mahomes. The message, which has since gained significant attention, asserts that the war against God's people is not only inside the church walls but extends into sports, entertainment, business and government.

According to Arayomi, while millions watched the game, a witch was seen performing a voodoo ritual in the stands, allegedly targeting Mahomes, a known follower of Jesus Christ. This act is likened to the biblical account of Balaam, who was hired to curse Israel but ultimately failed because God's people were blessed and could not be cursed (Num. 22-24). He warns that the same demonic strategies are at play today, operating through culture, deception and spiritual warfare.

"The enemy has been doing the same thing for centuries, warring against God's people behind closed doors, working through witches, through culture, through compromise, through deception, hoping that we stay ignorant to what is at hand," Arayomi says.

It's also worth taking into consideration that the game was held in New Orleans, an area known for voodoo and witchcraft. Undoubtedly, there must be a territorial stronghold of these witchcraft spirits at play, wanting to thwart anyone who is of God.

Looking at other implications of how witchcraft could play a role in 2025, Arayomi points out that the Lord will expose big pharma this year. Citing Revelation 18:23, he warns that pharmaceutical deception—rooted in the Greek word 'pharmakeia,' meaning sorcery—has led nations astray. He prophesies that lawsuits and whistleblowers will soon unveil corruption tied to COVID-era profiteering, implicating figures like Anthony Fauci and Bill Gates.

"The system is about to shake. The lawsuits have already begun," Arayomi says.

The enemy's tactics may be subtle or overt, but the power of God remains unmatched. Now is the time for the church to rise in prayer, walk in the authority of Christ and refuse to be passive in the face of deception.
