

Prophetic Warning: After the Election and 2025

As millions of people flock to the polls for Election Day, we must also take a spiritual inventory of what the results will mean for America's future.

Recently, Jeremiah Johnson shared both his official statement on Donald Trump, and a vision that he had regarding the future of our nation.

After publicly repenting for missing the mark on the 2020 election, Johnson has made it clear that he is not prophesying about who will win the election this year. However, he has shared an urgent message to the church about what could follow after the next president is determined.

"In October, I received several dreams where millions of people were wandering in a desert in search of thirst. Kamala Harris began to build a gigantic mirage, enticing people to keep wandering for water that was never there until they perished," says Johnson.

"In the dream, as I watched millions of people perish for they realized they had searched so long for water that they did not have strength to return and were left to die, I heard God speak in the dream and say, 'conflict is coming like you have never seen before,'" he continues.

This warning of conflict, however, is not limited to just one candidate's potential presidency, but the warning is for America regardless of who becomes president.

"The 2024 election is one where you must choose who you want to lead America through the global war," says Johnson. "If Donald Trump is elected, this is an announcement of war and conflict. If Kamala Harris is elected, this is an audition for war and conflict. Either way, you are electing a wartime president."

Johnson says that the certainty of trials to come will bring us to realize that the only one we can ultimately place all of our hope in is Jesus Christ.

Outside of America, the Lord also placed it on Johnson's heart to pray for Israel, not only with her external enemies, but also against internal strife as well.

"In 2025 and beyond we must focus our prayers not only for divine protection for Israel concerning her surrounding enemies, but also divine protection from within against assassination attempts," says Johnson.

Johnson contends that the battle against Leviathan will be prevalent for the body of Christ in 2025, and we must cease feeding into him.

"I often ask people, 'How does Satan start as a serpent in Genesis but end up a dragon in Revelation?' Our flesh fed him," he says. "It's very important to note that Satan is a master at striking in new seasons, season[s] of birthing."

During this time, believers must pray and stick close to the Word of God, no matter who wins the election. It is time for the church to be the church and for the Lord's people to seek Him with all of their hearts.
