

Ring of Fire Eclipse Converges with Sculpture Garden Cross

A special event is unfolding on Oct. 14, 2023: an annular solar eclipse is set to grace the skies of North America. This eclipse is renowned for its creation of a captivating “ring of fire” in the heavens.

It will journey through seven U.S. states, spanning from Oregon to Texas. And the best part? Even if you can’t be there in person, you can still witness this celestial wonder online, free of charge.

During this particular eclipse, the moon appears a tad smaller than the sun, leaving a remarkable ring of sunlight around its edges. Unlike a total eclipse that entirely obscures the sun, this “ring of fire” eclipse presents a unique and awe-inspiring sight.

While everyone in the Americas will catch a glimpse of the eclipse, witnessing the full “ring of fire” requires being in a specific path, stretching from the northwest U.S. through Central America to Brazil. This path encompasses seven U.S. states: Oregon, California, Nevada, Utah, Arizona, New Mexico and Texas.

Could it be that one of God’s celestial signs, foretold in the last days (Acts 2:19-21), is about to manifest as the convergence of two rare solar eclipses, right over “The Empty Cross”—a magnificent seven-story sculpture within The Coming King Sculpture Prayer Garden in Kerrville, Texas?

This location, sharing the same latitude as the Holy Land, bears a profound significance to God, underscored by undeniable supernatural occurrences. Beyond its physical resemblance to the Holy Land, this piece of Texas Hill Country has been a place where documented miracles, signs and wonders have unfolded. Over a million souls from across the globe have sought God's intervention, salvation, healing and deliverance at this sacred Christian site.

The remarkable 77-foot, 7-inch hollow cross sculpture at this site has been seen by millions of travelers on Interstate 10, bridging California and Florida. Countless more have learned about this unique spiritual art garden through various media channels. Astonishingly, the paths of the upcoming October 14, 2023, Annular Solar Eclipse and the April 8, 2024, Total Solar Eclipse are set to converge deliberately. Many believe this convergence, forming a colossal cross in the sky directly above "The Empty Cross," is not a mere coincidence but a divine message from the Creator Himself.

This eclipse is indeed a special one, being the last "ring of fire" eclipse in the U.S. until 2039, as per "The Farmer's Almanac." Subsequently, the 2039 eclipse will be visible only in Alaska and northwest Canada.

The occurrence of events like this "ring of fire" eclipse appears to be on the rise. As noted by Charisma News, a total lunar eclipse took place on Tuesday, Nov. 8, 2022. This was a historic event, marking the first time in U.S. history that a blood moon coincided with Election Day.

Drawing inspiration from the book of Joel, chapter 2, we find a prophet's words describing the moon turning to blood, the darkening of the sun and moon, and the Lord's display of wonders in the heavens. These prophecies, echoed in the New Testament by Jesus Himself, remind us that such celestial events bear significance.

As we witness these heavenly events aligning with anticipation for prophetic signs like the birth of the red heifer in Israel and the future rebuilding of the third temple, it's clear that millions of Christians and Jews around the world are eagerly awaiting the next chapter in the biblical end times.

So, as you prepare to enjoy the forthcoming solar eclipse, keep in mind the Bible's teachings about signs in the heavens. These celestial wonders serve as a vivid reminder of God's boundless power and His unwavering promise to return. Let the eclipse be a stunning reminder of God's glory and the enduring hope it brings to us all. {eo}
