“Last Saturday at Butler, Pennsylvania, President Trump had a near death experience. No question. But God spared his life. And when we go through those experiences, it changes us. It can cause us to examine our lives and to reevaluate our priorities, as you should,” Graham said.

Graham acknowledges that he does not have the answers as to why God would save one person’s life but not another’s. However, what he does know is that God desires for each of us to know Christ and be with Him eternally.

“I cannot explain why God would save one life and allow another one to be taken. I don’t have the answer for that. But one thing I do know is that God loves us, and He wants us to be with Him in heaven one day. And that’s through faith in His Son Jesus Christ,” Graham said.

Hulk Hogan also spoke at the RNC in his support of Trump. Speaking with passion and fire about the shots that were taken at Trump, Hogan famously ripped off his shirt in “Trump-a-mania” to show a Trump-Vance shirt underneath.

“They tried to kill the next president of the United States. Enough was enough, and I said, ‘Trump-a-mania, run wild brother,’” Hogan said tearing his shirt.

“I’ve known that man for over 35 years, and he’s always been the biggest patriot, and he still is,” Hogan said.

Country singer Jason Aldean was also seen sitting next to Trump at one point, and Kid Rock performed where he encouraged the audience to put their fists up and scream “fight” just as Trump did when he got up after being shot last Saturday.

Former First Lady, Melania Trump, also received a standing ovation from the crowd as she arrived. She also joined the former president on stage after his acceptance speech along with his other children and grandchildren. Barron Trump was not present for the final night of the RNC.

Barron was chosen to be a delegate for Florida back in May, but due to “prior commitments,” he had to decline. Barron graduated high school in May, and has captivated the hearts and attention of many across America as he has grown up in the limelight.
