

Sarah Palin to Obama: ISIS Wants Your Head but Christians Praying for You

Sarah Palin called out U.S. president Barack Obama for ignoring the Islamic threat while Christians fight spiritual battles for him.

“Wake up, Mr. President,” the Former Alaska governor said at the Conservative Political Action Conference. “While Christians bow our heads and pray for you, radical Islamists want to cut off your head.”

Obama has shied away from equating the Islamic State with Islam, going as far as saying that the West’s war on Islam is an “ugly lie.” He also equated Islamic terrorist groups to the Christian crusades.

“Lecturing Christians to get off our high horse about radical Islam won’t stop the Islamists from killing Christians,” Palin said in her CPAC speech.

Ignoring the threat, though, doesn’t make it go away, she said.

And prayer may be the only shot to save this country while militants make bold and gruesome threats against its leader.