

The Anti-Christ Spirit Behind China's Quest for World Dominance

Read Time: 2 minutes, 34 seconds

China positioned itself as an emerging global player in democracy and capitalism, and many Western nations, including our own, eagerly embraced the rising power. So eagerly, in fact, that they didn't notice the red flags of the growing Chinese Communist Party empire in the world.

For the past 20 years, in sector after sector, China's dominance increased. Now their economy, influence and global footprint rivals the United States, the world leader.

Make no mistake, Chinese domination is biblical in its proportion and demonic in its effort. The religious freedoms championed by the U.S. have propelled the gospel of Christ for centuries, protected kingdom values and demonstrated to the world how preserving "life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness" result in prosperity and blessing. Communism at its core is anti-God—in fact it replaces God with the state. The spirit behind it is an anti-Christ spirit. It is deceptive and dominating.

With a smile, the Chinese communists are usurping global financial markets, committing cybertheft, carrying out intellectual property piracy, aggressively building their Belt and Road Initiative, buying up farmland in the U.S., acquiring strategic ports across the world, grabbing up land near U.S. military bases, spying and collecting data through technology such as TikTok, developing a COVID bioweapon and surveilling the world—all while persecuting Christians in their nation and indoctrinating people worldwide for the party.

China's actions have been devised to disintegrate our culture and nation slowly and covertly, positioning to overtake the U.S. and step into the leadership role that we have played globally. Make no mistake, the aim is not to leapfrog us for the sake of status; they want to occupy us.

We should be gravely concerned that so many in our government have looked away from the red flags, seemingly for the short-term gains of cheap production and manufacturing, while the noose around our neck tightens. American manufacturing is struggling to compete. The majority of products on our shelves are made in China. Every "Shark Tank" episode shows hungry entrepreneurs dying to make a deal to produce their goods "off-shore" at a greatly reduced cost. We are addicted—and it is killing us.

As the Chinese execute this long war, they insert communist tentacles into many parts of American life, business, and government. Recently, election experts discovered that Chinese companies and interests have access to critical data, software, and entities involved in American elections.

A voting-software company doing business in many districts in our nation is now known to be rooted in communist China. Our backdoors are wide open to the manipulation of data, the altering of outcomes, disruption of the process and anything else the Chinese may have in their plans.

You can read about these shocking findings in the first release of a special series of IFA Special Reports on China's War with America. This first installment demonstrates the unraveling of data that reveals these security risks for our nation. This issue is a spiritual battle—a battle of anti-God communism versus the Judeo-Christian values at the core of America's founding.

This is why we pray and take action. The future of our republic and free elections are at stake. {eoa}
