

Toddler Fights for Her Life After Man Allegedly Stabs Her to ‘Get the Demons Out’

There’s a horrific story out of Las Vegas, Nevada, where a man is accused of stabbing a 3-year-old girl multiple times, telling relatives he was trying to “get the demons out of her.”

Alan Wilson, 28, is accused of stabbing the child up to 11 times during a home Bible study March 31.

There were reportedly around five family members gathered with Wilson at the time, according to reports.

One report indicates the attack unfolded during a Bible study, and another alleges it took place while the child was eating dinner, though the definitive details remain unclear.

Witnesses claim the accused purportedly attacked the child from behind. Another family member reportedly wrestled the knife out of his hand, with others rushing to help the child.

“I need to get the demons out of her,” a witness quoted Wilson as saying. “I need to save her.”

He reportedly fled the scene but was later located by authorities. Wilson has been charged with attempted murder, child abuse, and battery charges, KTNV-TV reported. {eoa}

For the rest of this article, visit our content partners at .

Read articles like this one and other Spirit-led content in our new platform, CHARISMA PLUS.