

Travis Johnson: Is Revival Coming in 2025?

Is revival coming to America in 2025?

In an exclusive interview with Charisma Media, Travis Johnson expressed what he believes the Lord is saying we should be on the lookout for in the coming year.

“...It’s a window of opportunity for revival,” Johnson says. “Really, a revival of the American spirit. I feel like we are going to see a revival of the necessarily spiritually, church revival, but just a renewal and a refocusing, a regripping of the family and a revival of the things good and decent and profitable.”

Johnson says this is a time for going, moving forward in the call of God.

“What I’m hearing is ‘Take dominion. Show up. Take dominion. The environment’s already been prepped. Step in, step forward,’” says Johnson.

Johnson notes that many Christians try to take everyone they can along their journey with them. While it is good of us to want everyone walking along the path of righteousness, we cannot slow down or get pulled back if others will not take those steps forward with the Lord.

“I’m walking through the door in 2025. I’m not looking back to see who's following. I have confidence that as I walk through, people are following," Johnson says.

As we prepare to go into some new places and territories in 2025, Johnson is also reminded from the book of Revelation that we must strengthen that which remains. The church cannot sit on the sidelines anymore and allow woke ideology to take over, nor can we slide back into the place of what is comfortable. Instead, we must move forward with the holy calling of what the Lord has for us.

"Spiritually, I see it. I believe God is raising up some great voices in this moment."

One of the ways Johnson has seen the Lord calling the church to be more like the hands and feet of Jesus is through a unique Christmas outreach with Buy a Tree, Change a Life.

"We were co-sponsoring Christmas at Chimney Rock. Of course, Chimney Rock captured America's attention as this 20-foot wall of water comes down through this really beautiful part of Appalachia and just wipes out homes and businesses," Johnson recalls.

Johnson says that while he was there giving out Christmas trees to families, the town's tree lighting took place where they did something extra special for the residents of Chimney Rock.

"We had decorated the tree with items that had been scavenged downstream from the flood. And they were shoes. They were little toys. They were little guitars that had been lost from people's homes. So, these little kids come up and they're seeing their toys and clothing in the tree. It was the most joyful, tearful moment that you can imagine."

During this Christmas season and as we enter 2025, let us take this moment to pray for God's grace and guidance on how we can grow closer to Him and be a light to a dark and tumultuous world around us.
