

Troy Brewer Exposes the Luciferian Side of Trafficking

In the relentless struggle against the abhorrent reality of child trafficking, Pastor Troy Brewer and his ministry emerge as beacons of hope and relentless warriors against the forces of darkness that plague innocent lives.

With a fervent dedication to his ministry's mission, Brewer unravels the grim truths lurking beneath the surface, all the while asserting that divine intervention and a transformative message are essential weapons in the battle against this global epidemic.

"God has opened a portal with 'The Sound of Freedom.' I think that the title was prophetic," Brewer asserts, his voice resonating with a conviction that carries the weight of over two decades of relentless pursuit to combat child trafficking worldwide. As he speaks, it's evident that Brewer believes in the spiritual significance of his mission, viewing the release of the movie as a catalyst for profound change.

Brewer's journey in this arena has not been without obstacles. He laments the challenge of raising awareness, of pushing back against society's inclination to avert its gaze from the horrors of child trafficking. Yet, the release of the movie "The Sound of Freedom" triggers a resonant shift, akin to the impact of "Uncle Tom's Cabin" in the context of slavery. Brewer draws this parallel, illustrating how a narrative can serve as a vehicle for change, catalyzing movements and altering the collective consciousness.

"People didn't actually talk about slavery here in America, they politely ignored it. And then they said, 'Can you believe that this trash is going on around us?' And then the Underground Railroad started, the Abolitionist movement started and went all the way to the Civil War and the 13th Amendment. It had a profound effect upon our entire nation," says Brewer.

The conversation takes a somber turn, as Brewer unveils the sinister underbelly of the trafficking industry—the ritualized murder of children. He speaks unflinchingly of the market that thrives on not only sexualizing but sacrificing young lives. Brewer's candidness paints a grim picture of the scale of this darkness, a reality that often eludes mainstream discourse.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

"This is not the lunatic fringe of trafficking," Brewer declares resolutely. "It is a huge portion of it."

He shares stories of children who bear the scars of unspeakable trauma, their lives caught in the web of exploitation, often involving witchcraft and sinister high-level orchestrations. Brewer's firsthand experiences shed light on the chilling extent of these atrocities, emphasizing that this is not the product of imagination but a stark reality that demands confrontation.

"I've personally seen it. And I've personally experienced the witchcraft of tons and tons of people that got together, that do this kind of thing, where they have attacked us on a natural level and on a supernatural level. I've been in the houses, I've been in the rooms, I've [been] where the cameras were still set up and where there had been horrible things that had happened, seen it. I have kids under my care right now that have experienced it," reveals Brewer.

As Brewer discusses his encounters with the sinister depths of child trafficking, he refuses to be paralyzed by horror. Instead, he emphasizes the role of the Christian community in standing against this tide of evil. He calls for believers to rise and radiate the goodness of God, to become beacons of light that counteract the darkness.

Reflecting on a significant moment at the international summit against human trafficking, Brewer speaks of a divine alignment that seems to punctuate his mission. He recounts a prophetic declaration he made there, one that materialized with astonishing immediacy, uprooting trees and shutting off power in the very location where he spoke. For Brewer, this event encapsulates the supernatural endorsement behind his mission, a divine confirmation that fuels his resolve.

In the end, Pastor Troy Brewer's words reveal a man deeply entrenched in the battle for the lives of the innocent. His fervor, underscored by faith and fortified by his experiences, casts light on the unspeakable atrocities of child trafficking while also pointing to a higher power capable of vanquishing darkness. Through his ministry and his unwavering stance, Brewer ignites hope, incites action and propels a movement against the most insidious of evils. {eoa}

To watch the full interview with Pastor Troy Brewer, click here!

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

James Lasher is Staff Writer for Charisma Media.