

Trump Declares God Is on America's Side as He Issues Stark Warning to Iran

How does God feel about the conflict with Iran? President Donald Trump shared his view of God's perspective on the issue.

During a press conference, a reporter asked the president, "Do you believe that God supports the United States' actions in this war?"

To this question, Trump replied: "I do because God is good."

He then emphasized that he does not enjoy giving the stark warnings he has to Iran.

"...God wants to see people taken care of. God doesn't like what's happening. I don't like what's happening. Everyone says I don't enjoy don't like seeing people killed."

As The Daily Caller reported, Trump brought back up his attempt of being the "peace president."

"I've ended eight wars. Nobody's ever done it. The person who won the Nobel Prize came to me and said, you deserve the Nobel Prize. She announced that when they announced.”

The president also mentioned his work with India and Pakistan to resolve conflict there, saying that the prime minister of Pakistan reportedly stated Trump helped to save “30 to 50 million lives.” He also shared that he still has “one more” war to end, referencing the Russia-Ukraine war.

In a time marked by uncertainty, the call for Christians is clear: pray for discernment, stand for truth and seek the heart of God above the noise of war.
