

Trump, the End Times and the Coming of the Antichrist

Is Donald Trump related to the prophetic patterns of the end times?

After posting a viral video on the significance of Ingersoll Lockwood's Baron Trump book collection, Samantha Starkey sat down with journalist and author Troy Anderson about his latest book, "The Trump Code," to discuss how Trump just may connect to the end times signs we see happening around us right now.

Lockwood, who passed away in the early 1900s, could never have known about the boy who would someday be born as Baron Trump, the son of former president Donald Trump. Lockwood also could never have known that using the character name "Don" as a relative to Baron would have an even greater significance.

"There's historical, credible evidence that these book was actually written in the 1890s, and there's been mainstream media articles about this and now there's videos that got millions and millions of views, so it's a very intriguing series of books that Ingersoll Lockwood wrote," Anderson says.

Starkey points out that not only are these books prophetic in themselves, but during this time when people are highly confused about the end times and what we can expect to happen, we see how many have fallen into a false belief that Trump is the Antichrist. However, we can look at Scripture and see how this isn't the case.

"When I think about Trump, I like him, but he's snappy," Starkey says. "And when you think about the that they're going to have a mouth of honey. Everybody that listens to them is going to want to be swayed to their way of thinking. When you think of Trump, it's like a bull in a China cabinet."

When the Antichrist comes, they will be incredibly liked by all, many drawn to them. This is quite opposite of Trump's personality. However, as Starkey points out, this misunderstanding has much to do with improper teaching about the end times.

"It goes to show ya'll how little people have actually been taught proper end time truth and prophecy from the book of Revelation," Starkey says. She further points out that in every generation, there have been evil people that could have very well accepted that spirit to be the Antichrist. However, when all the end times events will occur, including the return of Christ, only the heavenly Father knows.

Anderson further notes that this year's election is critical because we are at a crossroads between two different choices that will dramatically alter the face of the nation.

"There's a consensus that history might be wrapping up. And so, this is a critical time in history," Anderson says. The Democrats are closely aligned, The World Economic Forums Great Reset Plan, United Nations agenda Kamala Harris gets in there, there's gonna be an acceleration toward this great reset plan."

As we draw closer each day to the return of Jesus, we need to keep our eyes focused on Him, the plans and purposes He has for us and how we can spread the gospel to a world in this most desperate hour.
