

Unity on Display at RNC as Trump's Campaign Rivals Fight FOR Him

The Republican National Convention re-convened Tuesday night with a focus on securing America's borders and a show of party unity. Donald Trump's former campaign rivals gave back-to-back speeches, urging Republicans to come together to beat Joe Biden.

"Let's make the 45th president of the United States, the 47th president of the United States," said Gov. Ron DeSantis (R-FL) who dropped out of the race for the White House back in January.

DeSantis praised Trump's record during his Tuesday night speech.

"Our border was safer under the Trump administration and our country was respected when Donald Trump was our Commander-in-Chief," he said to the RNC crowd.

Trump's strongest challenger and tough critic during the campaign, his former UN Ambassador Nikki Haley, also pledged her support during a convention speech.

"You don't have to agree with Trump 100 percent of the time to vote for him," she said.

After endorsing Trump, Haley talked up his foreign policy record, making her strongest comments in support of the former president this election season.

“When Barack Obama was president, Vladimir Putin invaded Crimea. With Joe Biden as president, Putin invaded all of Ukraine. But when Donald Trump was president, Putin did nothing. No invasion. No invasions. No wars. That was no accident,” Haley said.
