

VIDEO: Sharing Faith at School

Students from the kindergarten classroom to the university campus are bolder than ever—passionate about sharing their faith with friends and the unchurched. An attorney from the Alliance Defense Fund weighs in on the religious freedoms students have and what to do if those rights are denied. Watch today's daily interest video to find out what parents can do in this age to stand behind their child's decision to share the gospel.