

WATCH: Basketball Players Walk Off Court to Support Bullied Classmate

Desiree Andrews has Down syndrome, but that doesn't normally stop the pep in her step—she's a cheerleader for a basketball team.

However, when some bullies were attacking her from the stands in the middle of a game, some unlikely heroes stepped in.

"When I heard they were talking about her, it made me kind of mad," said basketball player Miles Rodriguez.

What happens next will remind you that kindness still exists. Watch the video to see their story.