

WATCH: 'Ghost' Shocks Arizona Trucker

Something strange—and perhaps supernatural—is happening on Arizona State Route 87 at the 200-mile marker, located between Phoenix and Payson.

This week, Fox News Digital reported that a truck driver's dashcam video showed a mysterious figure appearing on the side of the road. The video has viewers wondering exactly what it is they are seeing in the video, recorded around a.m. William Church, the truck driver with the video cam, is especially intrigued.

Church told Fox News Digital that there were no other cars on the road when he noticed a bright glare in his Nexar dashcam, which he thinks could be a ghost. He told Fox Television Stations that he thinks "the translucent figure looks like a person 'just standing in the roadway.'"

"You can see the lines through the legs making the figure," Church says.

The video lasted for six seconds. The dashcam was installed for security reasons.

Fox News Digital reported that "many fatal car accidents have happened on the 60-year-old highway, which has reportedly led some locals to believe the road could be haunted.

Valley Chevy Dealers in Phoenix named State Road 87 as one of Arizona's "most dangerous roads" for its beeline-like route that has a "lot of looping turns." A recent fatal car crash happened on Arizona State 87 near milepost 201 in early February, Fox 10 Phoenix reported.

It has been reported that “viewers who have seen Church’s video on YouTube claim they’ve seen a lot of supernatural activity on Arizona Highways and in other public spaces.

“They’re out there,” on YouTube commenter wrote on Monday, March 13.

“Yep, saw it ... yeah, it does have a most definite ghostly appearance,” another YouTube user wrote. “That’s for real I think.” {eo}
