

WATCH: Prince Charles Calls Threat on Christianity in Middle East an 'Indescribable Tragedy'

Charles, Prince of Wales, said Christians are the most persecuted religious minority in the world.

'It is an indescribable tragedy Christianity is now under such threat in the Middle East," Charles said. "Rather than remaining silent, faith leaders it seems to me have a responsibility to ensure that people within their own tradition respect people in other traditions."