

WATCH: This Video on Islam's Agenda in America's Schools Went Massively Viral

Blogger Dianne Lynn Savage has done her homework, including a vocabulary list and sentence completion assignment with Islamic words and lessons. This story was initially reported by Todd Starnes.

A parent from Farmville, North Carolina, forwarded their child's lesson to Savage, asking her to bring to light the Islamic influence present in public education.

Savage took to the Internet to disseminate the information. "Make them aware of what's going on," she says. "Even if they don't have children ... they need to be beating the doors of the principal's office!"

Watch the video to see what has Savage fired up.