

WATCH: Wheelchair-Bound Man Confronts ‘False Prophet’ at Healing Meeting

A wheelchair-bound man attended Todd Bentley’s healing crusade Thursday to rebuke the faith-healing preacher.

Justin Peters, who runs Justin Peters Ministries in Oklahoma, suffers from cerebral palsy and is confined to a wheelchair. When Bentley gave him the microphone, he began reciting from Matthew 7.

“And Jesus will look at them and he [will say], ‘I never knew you. Depart from me, you workers of iniquity,’” he declared. “This man is a worker of iniquity.”

“Which man?” Bentley asked.

“You,” said Peters, who continued speaking until he was escorted away.
