

You Won't Believe What Prophetic Word Was Fulfilled Just Now!

Has a prophetic word from Alexander Pagani been fulfilled?

Previously, Alexander Pagani shared a word with Charisma Media about the rise of Jehus that would come onto the scene. Little did we know that just two short years later we would see the ultimate figure of Jehu in our day and age, Donald Trump, win his re-election bid. Not only that, but Pagani's word echoes exactly what we've seen happen within the church.

"...the rise of the wild ones who will be sanctioned by God to be able to confront systems that have been oppressing God's people, and they're not going to have that religious piety and policy-minded like most of us," Pagani said. He also predicted a rise of "digital Jehus" as well.

"There is a hunger. There is a desire in churches, even in churches that don't do only way that's going to change is going to require there to be a Jehu."

Now, in an interview with Kap Chatfield, Pagani is sharing more on how he saw this word come to pass, and what kinds of things the church needs to be paying attention to today.

"Judgment starts in the house of God," Chatfield says. "So, tell us about how God was already giving you a perspective of what was going to come..."

"I had dreams with Diddy before the Diddy [scandal] happened, and I also had dreams with Jakes before," Pagani starts. "December of last year or the year before began to say that Jehu was an unpolished, unsanctioned individual who God raised up to take care and to dismantle one person, and it was Jezebel."

From the political sphere to the church, we are witnessing bold, unpolished and God-ordained individuals stepping up to confront strongholds that have long held God's people captive. As Pagani foresaw, the "wild ones" are here, and they are dismantling systems of oppression with a holy fire that refuses to be quenched.

This is not just about one man or one election—it is about the shifting tide in the spiritual realm. Now more than ever, the church must be discerning, standing firm in truth and ready to embrace the Jehu mantle. The battle is far from over, but one thing is certain: God is raising up His warriors for such a time as this.
