

Shocking Prophetic Warning: Is God Judging the Church's Integrity Today?

If you've ever asked God for healing—whether for yourself or a loved one—you're not alone. For many Christians, the idea of divine healing feels like something that happens to “other people.” But according to Gordon Robertson of The 700 Club, the keys to receiving your miracle are already written in the Word of God—and they're available to you right now.

“There are keys to healing,” Robertson said in a recent broadcast. “One is the key of announcing it—you say to the mountain, ‘Be removed.’”

It's a principle straight from the Bible. Mark 11:23 says, “For truly I say to you, whoever says to this mountain, ‘Be removed and be thrown into the sea,’ and does not doubt in his heart, but believes that what he says will come to pass, he will have whatever he says.”

But there's more to it than just speaking. Robertson emphasized the importance of letting the Word of God take root in your heart: “The other is that you allow the Word to grow and bear fruit in your life—that you see with your eyes, you hear with your ears, you understand, and then you turn so that Jesus can heal you.”

This echoes Jesus' own words in Matthew 13:15, "For this people's heart has grown dull, their ears are hard of hearing, and they have closed their eyes, lest they should see with their eyes, and hear with their ears, and understand with their hearts, and turn, and I should heal them."

Robertson describes how a word of knowledge—a moment when God reveals specific details about someone's condition—can shake us out of disbelief: "Word of knowledge gets your attention. It causes you to turn. You see it, you hear it, and you turn."

He went on to quote Psalm 103:3: "Who forgives all your iniquities, who heals all your diseases."

The bottom line? God's healing isn't just a hopeful idea—it's a promise. But receiving it requires action: declaring His Word, allowing it to grow in your heart and responding in faith when you hear it spoken over your situation.

Midshipmen Rejoice: Jesus Returning to the Merchant Marine Academy

There's something powerfully telling about a room full of future American leaders erupting in applause—not for funding, not for policy changes, but for Jesus. That's exactly what happened at the U.S. Merchant Marine Academy's Battle Standard Dinner on Apr. 3, when Secretary of Transportation Sean Duffy stood before the midshipmen and boldly declared, "Can we bring Jesus up from the basement?"

The crowd's response was electric. "Let's not put Jesus in the basement! Let's get Him out! Let's bring Him up!" Duffy said, triggering the loudest applause of the night. Taken aback by the passion in the room, he smiled and said, "You want Jesus up from the basement? Alright, great! That was the loudest applause we got!"

As reported by The Christian Post, the painting in question—Christ on the Water, created in 1947 by merchant mariner Hunter Wood—was removed from its place in Wiley Hall following a 2023 complaint from the Military Religious Freedom Foundation. The group demanded the removal of the painting, which it called a display of "sectarian" religious imagery.

Initially covered with a curtain, the painting was ultimately moved to a flood-prone basement, prompting an outcry from midshipmen, alumni, and members of Congress.

To the midshipmen, this wasn't just art—it was personal.

One midshipman told The Christian Post, “I remember many times when I used to pray underneath that painting when I was on the verge of failing a class, or I had big tests or I was worried about something.” Another recalled how its presence gave comfort during difficult moments, saying, “People would look up to that painting and say, ‘Everything’s going to be all right. Jesus is looking after me.’”

This moment is more than just a symbolic gesture. It’s part of a broader return to truth, faith, and courage in places where it once felt absent. With Jesus back at the forefront, we’re witnessing change—not just at the academy, but across the nation. And as one midshipman put it, “Finally, the fight is somewhat close to over.”

Let’s not miss what this represents. The cheers weren’t just for a painting—they were for the hope and strength that Jesus brings. And now, more than ever, that hope is rising.

Pastor Jack Hibbs Sounds the Alarm: False Teachers and

Prophecies Are Here

When George Orwell wrote '1984' in 1949, readers saw a world that was "dark, twisted and bizarre—but also somehow familiar," Pastor Tom Hughes recently explained on The Tom Hughes Report.

Though the novel was fiction, set in a future England under oppressive rule, the themes were already beginning to play out in real life. And now, more than 40 years after the actual year 1984, we're living in a world where Orwell's dystopia seems less like fiction and more like a mirror.

But Orwell wasn't a prophet—he was an atheist who understood totalitarianism, not Scripture. "Don't think of Orwell as a prophet," Hughes reminds. "He definitely was not." Yet as Hughes walks through the current cultural and spiritual climate, he points to something far deeper and more accurate than Orwell's imagination: Bible prophecy.

"Bible prophecy teaches that a global totalitarian government will briefly take control of Earth at some point in the future."

From that biblical foundation, Hughes breaks down four key understandings of the rise of this totalitarian system and its prophetic parallels. Here's what he sees unfolding before our very eyes:

1. The Rise of the Global Surveillance State

Orwell imagined the "telescreen"—a two-way device that watched and listened in every home. But he couldn't have envisioned what we now live with: smart devices in our pockets, cars, homes and workplaces.

“Unlike Orwell’s limited surveillance, modern cameras and microphones are always on... The unimaginably massive level of data they gather can be monitored live while also being stored for later examination.”

The world is already interconnected. The system is already built. Now it just needs a ruler.

2. AI: The Ultimate Enforcer of Control

Artificial Intelligence is no longer theoretical. It's practical, active and expanding fast.

“Today we see the answer to the totalitarian’s dilemma: AI... At first, if AI suspects you are of nefarious activity, it will send law enforcement... Later, it will be its own law enforcement.”

From regulating your thermostat and fuel allotment to launching autonomous robot enforcers, Hughes paints a clear picture of AI as a tool for global dominance.

“Imagine how Stalin would have loved it if he could have controlled the Soviet Union... through the use of thinking machines.”

3. The War on Truth and Thought Itself

In 1984, the regime used “newspeak” to control thought by changing language. Sound familiar?

“Language deeply influences thought... One of the best ways to change patterns of thought is to change patterns of language.”

Hughes points to Isaiah 5:20 and Malachi 2:17, warning of a world that calls evil good and good evil—even within the church. This war isn’t just political—it’s spiritual.

4. The Apostasy Within the Church

This is perhaps the most sobering point. The deception isn’t just outside the church—it’s inside.

“They rejected the light of God’s word and instead adopted the worldly enlightenment of hell’s own fires.”

Churches are preaching a “Jesus” who isn’t the Jesus of the Bible. They’re affirming sin, grooming children for the world’s wicked systems, and mocking the truth.

“Churches are actively laying the children in their care on Molech’s fiery altar.”

This isn’t just a cultural collapse—it’s a spiritual falling away, just as the Bible warned.

But There's Hope—and Power

In the midst of all this darkness, Hughes makes it clear: We are not called to fear or silence.

“We walk in righteousness and peace and joy in the Holy Spirit.”

Jesus promised He would not leave us as orphans (John 14:16–18), and the Holy Spirit is our constant companion, comforter and power source. Romans 8 reminds us that we are more than conquerors—no matter what the beast system throws our way.

This isn't the time to hide in spiritual bunkers. It's time to preach the gospel boldly, to be light in darkness and to live with confident expectation of Christ's return.

“Listen, we are not alone. We are filled, we are surrounded, and permeated with power by God the Holy Spirit.”

The Orwellian world may be rising—but the true Kingdom is coming. And in the meantime, we're not here by accident. We are here on mission.

“We don't slow down because we are in the last days.”

Exposed: The Biden Administration's Crusade Against Christian Colleges Was No Coincidence

With the Trump administration now firmly back in the White House, many Americans are hoping to see accountability restored in the agencies that were weaponized during the Biden years. And thanks to a bombshell report from the American Principles Project, one of the worst offenders has finally been exposed: the Department of Education.

According to APP's in-depth analysis, Biden's Department of Education – specifically its Office of Enforcement – launched what can only be described as a crusade against Christian and career colleges. And the numbers make it clear: this wasn't about oversight or protecting students. This was about targeting schools that didn't align with the progressive values being pushed by the previous administration.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Let's break it down. Here's what APP found:

- Nearly 70% of enforcement actions were aimed at faith-based and career colleges, even though they enroll less than 10% of U.S. college students.
- In a single year, Grand Canyon University was fined a staggering $37.7 million, and Liberty University was hit with $14 million in penalties – more than the total fines issued in the previous seven years combined.
- The average fine against Christian institutions for Clery Act violations? $815,000 – more than three times higher than the $228,571 average fine for secular public and private schools.

- At least 12 Christian colleges were subjected to either excessive penalties or complete removal from the federal student aid system. Not one Ivy League university received comparable treatment.

You can't call that a coincidence.

These actions paint a clear picture: Biden's Department of Education wasn't interested in fairness or transparency. It was using its power to punish institutions that stood for biblical values, traditional morality, and educational independence from left-wing ideology.

This wasn't just a political hit job either, it was spiritual warfare in broad daylight. The Biden administration's assault on Christian colleges is just one front in a much larger battle against godly values in America.

From pushing radical gender ideology in schools to cracking down on religious expression in the public square, every move seemed calculated to undermine anything that honored biblical truth. These attacks reveal a deeper hostility, not just toward faith-based institutions, but toward the God they serve. And when a government targets righteousness, it's not just policy at play, it's a clash between light and darkness.

Now, with a new administration in place, there is hope that this kind of ideological targeting will be rooted out. But make no mistake – what happened under Biden's watch was intentional, systematic and deeply un-American.

The Trump administration must not only halt this kind of overreach, it must work to dismantle the enforcement machinery that allowed it to happen in the first place, once and for all.

Because this isn't just about schools. It's about freedom. And it's about time we defended it.

From Broken to Breakthrough: How God RESTORED His Mental Health!

We can stand on the assurance of this truth: Who the Son sets free is free indeed!

In a powerful interview on CBN, author Dayne Kamela shares his inspiring story of how the Lord set him free from mental trauma more than 10 years ago.

“I never spoke the illness over my life,” Kamela says. “I understood that was the situation in the case. I was going to therapy and doing all of those things, but her encouragement helped me hold onto faith.”

Kamela says that even through his struggles, he clung onto the truth that his identity was found in Christ, not in the circumstances and the situations he saw around him.

“My identity is in Christ; it’s not in this crisis,” Kamela says. “I believe I can beat it. I’ve never seen someone healed, but this is the God that I serve.”
