

Troy Anderson Offers Insight on Trump's Tariffs, Drawing Striking Parallels to 'The Trump Code'

As the global economy experiences the ripple effects of President Donald J. Trump's newly proposed tariff policy, six-time #1 best-selling author Troy Anderson calls the policy shift "a divine disruption."

In his book, The Trump Code, Anderson explores how President Trump's leadership intersects with biblical and other prophecies, historical cycles and spiritual patterns. Anderson believes the new economic strategy—outlined by Treasury Secretary Scott Bessent—is not just a fiscal realignment but a biblical-level reset that echoes Revelation 18 and signals a potential collapse of corrupt global systems.

"This is more than an economic strategy—it's a divine disruption," Anderson says. "Trump's tariff plan may signal the fall of Babylon-like global empires and the rise of a sovereign, reawakened America. We are witnessing a historic reset—where God is shifting power back to the people and preparing the nations for the revival to come."

Treasury Secretary Bessent, in a recent interview, described the tariff plan as part of a broader effort to reindustrialize the U.S., restore main Street and empower working-class Americans—all major themes that align with the prophetic narrative found in The Trump Code. Anderson also draws attention to Revelation 911, a book he coauthored with Pastor Paul Begley, host of a popular YouTube show with over 266 million views, which explores similar prophetic trends linked to America's future.

“President Trump’s call to break with exploitative trade policies and uplift forgotten Americans is not only economic—it’s spiritual,” Anderson notes. “It’s part of a divine code of disruption, dismantling global strongholds and setting the stage for a national and global awakening.”

John Bevere Calls Out False Prophets

Jesus calls false prophets “wolves in sheep’s clothing” (Matt. 7:15). They are self-seeking men who give the appearance of being Christians (sheep’s clothing) but have the inward nature of a wolf. Wolves like to hang around sheep. They can be found in the congregation as well as in the pulpit. They are sent by the enemy to infiltrate and deceive. They must be identified by their fruits, not by their teachings or prophecies. Often the teaching can appear sound whereas the fruit in their lives and ministries is not. A minister or a Christian is what he lives, not what he preaches.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Wolves always go after the wounded and young sheep, not the healthy, strong ones. These wolves will tell people what they want to hear, not what they need to hear. These people don't want sound doctrine; they want someone to tickle their ears. Let's look at what Paul says about the last days:

But know this, that in the last days perilous times will come: For men will be . . . unforgiving . . . having a form of godliness but denying its power. And from such people turn away!...For the time will come when they will not endure sound doctrine, but according to their own desires, because they have itching ears, they will heap up for themselves teachers; and they will turn their ears away from the truth. (2 Tim. 3:1-5; 4:3-4).

Notice that they will have a form of godliness or "Christianity," but they will deny its power. How will they deny its power? They deny that Christianity can change them from being unforgiving to forgiving.

They will boast of being followers of Jesus and proclaim their "new birth" experience, but what they boast of has not been allowed to pierce their hearts and bring forth the character of Christ.

Information Generation

Paul could see prophetically that these deceived men and women would have a zeal for knowledge but remain unchanged since they never apply it. He described them as “always learning and never able to come to the knowledge of the truth” (2 Tim. 3:7).

If Paul were alive today he would grieve to see what he foretold in operation. He would see multitudes of men and women attending camp meetings, seminars, and church services amassing a knowledge of the Scriptures. He would watch them hunt for “new revelation” in order to live more selfish, successful lives. He’d see ministers taking one another to court for “righteous causes.”

He would see Christian publications and radio broadcasts attacking men and women of God by name. He would see charismatics running from church to church to escape offense, all of them professing the lordship of Jesus while they cannot forgive. Paul would cry out, “Repent and be free from your deception, you self-seeking generation of hypocrites!”

It doesn’t matter how up-to-date you are in new revelations from the many seminars and Bible schools you’ve attended or how many books you’ve read or even how many hours you pray and study. If you are offended and in unforgiveness and refuse to repent of this sin, you have not come to the knowledge of the truth. You are deceived, and you confuse others with your hypocritical lifestyle. No matter what the revelation, your fruit tells a different story. You’ll become a spring spewing out bitter waters that will bring deception, not truth.

From Thorns to Victory: The Prophecy That Shaped Jesus' Crucifixion

The beginning of the Bible just may show us the greatest prophetic message of all.

In a powerful sermon "King of the Curse," Jonathan Cahn describes the significance of the curse in Genesis when Adam and Eve fell into sin and its divine connection to Jesus Christ as our redeemer. Cahn begins by revisiting the Garden of Eden, where Adam and Eve's disobedience set the curse into motion—a curse that continues to shape the world we live in today.

This curse brought pain, toil, conflict and ultimately death. Yet, Cahn reveals that hidden within this curse is not only the problem but also the solution—through a prophecy that points directly to Jesus.

Could your favorite TV shows and music be hiding a dark and terrifying secret?

In today's entertainment-driven world, it's easy to forget the spiritual consequences of the media we consume. As believers, we must be discerning about what enters our homes and hearts. As Vlad Savchuk warns, certain content can open doors to demonic influence, leading to spiritual oppression and distance us far away from God. Here's a breakdown of his powerful message on protecting our minds and spirits from harmful media.

1. The Hidden Dangers of Occult Media

Savchuk begins with a bold statement: "If you hear this on your TV, turn it off. Or if you hear it on your computer or a phone device, turn it off, because this can open a door to demons." He warns that shows or movies glorifying witchcraft, sorcery, spells, séances and other occult practices are not harmless. "What the Bible calls abomination, the world calls entertainment." Watching these kinds of shows, even if we aren't directly involved in witchcraft, can still open doors to spiritual oppression. "Still, that is a potential open door to demonic spirits. So turn these off."

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

2. Music and Shows That Celebrate Sin

It's not just movies and TV shows that pose a threat—Savchuk emphasizes that music and media that glorify sin, rebellion, and immorality can have a significant impact. "What entertains you will eventually shape you," he states. "Do not love the world or the things in this world" (1 John 2:15). He specifically warns against media that "glorify drugs, immorality, violence and perversion," and emphasizes the importance of avoiding content that mocks God and biblical purity.

3. New Age and Self-Godhood Teachings

New Age teachings, which contradict biblical truth, are another source of spiritual danger. “The New Age movement has repackaged Satanism,” Savchuk explains. Phrases like “Speak into existence” or “The universe will bless you” directly contradict God’s Word: “You shall have no other gods before Me” (Exod. 20:3).

To purchase Vlad Savchuk’s new book, Make the Devil Homeless, visit .

He encourages believers to be cautious of content promoting self-exaltation or practices like yoga and astral projection, which align with the spirit of the New Age movement.

4. Avoiding the Fear of Horror and Violence

“Horror movies are based on real demonic manifestations,” Savchuk warns, highlighting the spiritual dangers of films that glorify fear, demons, and violence. “What you watch enters your spirit,” he explains, “and many people experience nightmares, demonic attacks, and fear after consuming horror content.”

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up to date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

Instead, believers are called to embrace “the fear of the Lord,” a healthy reverence for God, not the fear promoted in media.

5. Guarding Against False Teachings

Not all Christian content is biblical. Savchuk calls out teachings that twist the Gospel for personal gain or manipulation. “If anyone preaches any other gospel to you than the one you have received, let him be accursed” (Gal. 1:9). He urges believers to be vigilant against false doctrines that reject repentance, salvation through Jesus, and the need for holiness.

6. Protect Your Heart from Moral Corruption

Finally, Savchuk addresses the normalization of sexual perversion and moral corruption in modern media. “If you see explicit sex scenes or shows pushing immorality as normal, turn it off,” he urges, quoting Scripture: “For this is the will of God, your sanctification: that you should abstain from sexual immorality” (1 Thess. 4:3). Continuous exposure to such content can desensitize us, eventually leading to compromise in our walk with God.

7. The Power of Words

“Words, they carry power,” Savchuk says, cautioning believers against listening to profanity, vulgar language, and blasphemy. He reminds us that “constant exposure to profanity, vulgar language and blasphemy affects your spirit,” encouraging believers to protect their hearts by avoiding media that pollutes their souls.

Take Action Today

Savchuk calls believers to action: “Ask the Holy Spirit to convict you of unclean entertainment. Make a commitment to guard your eyes and your ears.” By doing so, we can replace harmful content with godly, edifying media and protect our hearts from demonic influence. Psalm 101:3 states, “I will set nothing wicked before my eyes,” a principle that can guide every believer in their media consumption.

By taking these steps, we protect not only our spirits but also our relationship with God, ensuring that our hearts remain pure and focused on His truth.

A Global Financial Reset Is Now Underway

Over the past few years, there has been a tremendous amount of buzz about an imminent “reset” of the global economy.

Well, what we are currently witnessing may not look like what they were anticipating, but a “reset” of the global economy is definitely here. Trillions of dollars were invested to set up the global supply chains that we have today.

I have always argued that we should have never allowed ourselves to become so dependent on goods that are made elsewhere, and making more things in this country is a goal that every administration should pursue.

Unfortunately, you can't just reverse decades of investment and construct entirely new supply chains overnight. For example, it costs approximately 10 billion dollars to build a manufacturing facility that makes computer chips, and construction time can run between three and five years. So anyone who thinks that we can just hit a “reset button” and magically make things better is simply being unrealistic.

We just witnessed the largest tariff increase in our history.

Many companies that invested enormous amounts of money into global supply chains that were carefully calculated to give them a competitive advantage have just had their businesses ruined.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

At the end of last week, I wrote that the global economy “has already been moving in the wrong direction for quite some time, and now a massive amount of fuel is being poured on to that fire”. I do not believe that the global economy is going to be able to handle a shock of this magnitude.

Wall Street was certainly not ready to have someone press the “reset” button. At this point, investors are “selling first and asking questions later.”

The tariffs have sent shockwaves through global financial markets, raising fears of a worldwide economic downturn and sharp price hikes across sectors in the world’s biggest consumer market.

‘The Trump administration may be playing a game of chicken with trading partners, but market participants aren’t willing to wait around for the results,’ Michael Arone, investment expert at State Street Global Advisors said.

‘Investors are selling first and asking questions later.’

Hopefully you were able to get out of the stock market before the carnage started.

Many are hoping that President Trump will reverse course after witnessing what has happened on Wall Street, but we are being told that there will be no turning back.

Trump administration officials messaged that the tariffs are to be implemented, and are not up for negotiation, across the Sunday political shows.

"The tariffs are coming. He announced it and he wasn't kidding. The tariffs are coming, of course they are," Commerce Secretary Howard Lutnick said on CBS's "Face the Nation."

So get ready to see some shocking price increases.

For example, an iPhone could soon cost several hundred dollars more.

Shoppers may find their favourite electronics, including iPhones, will soon become much pricier due to the tariffs if companies pass the price onto consumers.

Despite moves to expand its supply chain, Apple still makes the vast majority of its iPhones in China, where hardware exports will be hit with a tariff totaling 54% from Apr. 9.

The cheapest iPhone 16 model was launched in the U.S. with a sticker price of $799, but could cost as much as $1,142, per calculations based on projections from analysts at Rosenblatt Securities, who say the cost could rise by 43%.

This is going to be a devastating blow to our standard of living.

Sadly, instead of seeking to negotiate with President Trump, the Chinese have decided to retaliate by hiking tariffs on U.S. goods.

China announced Friday it will impose 34% tariffs on the U.S., just days after President Donald Trump unveiled the same amount against Beijing under his reciprocal tariff plan.

The new China tariffs against the U.S. will go into effect on Apr. 10, according to The Wall Street Journal.

“China played it wrong, they panicked – the one thing they cannot afford to do,” Trump wrote Friday on Truth Social.

So now a full-fledged trade war is raging between the largest economic power on the planet and the second largest economic power on the planet.

What do you think that is going to do to the global economy? It doesn't take a degree in economics to figure that one out.

The European Union has also decided to dig in for a fight.

The European Union will likely approve a first set of targeted countermeasures on up to $28 billion of U.S. imports in the coming days, Reuters reported Sunday.

The European Commission, which coordinates EU trade policy, will propose to members late on Monday a list of U.S. products to hit with extra duties in response to Trump's steel and aluminum tariffs rather than the broader reciprocal levies.

It is set to include U.S. meat, cereals, wine, wood and clothing as well as chewing gum, dental floss, vacuum cleaners and toilet paper.

Here we go. This is it folks. The days ahead will be filled with pain. At this stage, analysts at JPMorgan are telling us that there is a 60% chance of a recession.

Jamie Dimon finally has his hurricane. JPMorgan's economics team has just raised their recession probability to 60% following the aggressive tariff stance announced by U.S. President Donald Trump.

In a note entitled, “there will be blood,” chief economist Bruce Kasman and his team said this year's 22% tariff increase amounts to the largest tax hike since 1968.

Personally, I think that the analysts at JPMorgan are being wildly optimistic.

There is no way that we are getting out of this unscathed.

Earlier today, I read an excellent article about how these tariffs are going to affect the big shoe companies. They have spent billions of dollars setting up their global supply chains, and they can't just suddenly decide to start making shoes somewhere else.

The crux of the problem is that, since the 1990s, apparel and footwear has moved abroad. As Swartz explains, performance companies in particular invested billions of dollars into the roads, ports, factories, and rail lines that make up the complex supply chain feeding Vietnamese infrastructure.

It's in everyone's interest to keep these factories working. Vietnam relies on the business for their economy. Corporations rely on Vietnam to produce goods. Nike, for instance, doesn't own a single one of its factories globally.

"You can't just call a factory in India and say can you make 20 million of shoes for me, they don't have the capacity," says Swartz. Idle factories don't exist globally. An unused factory is shut down, and its staff is fired. Furthermore, specialized production methods behind modern footwear don't exist everywhere. Sewing is simple. But injection molded foam composites, polymer production, and complex fabric weaving are other topics. A modern sneaker may have as many as 100 parts produced in different factories, and if any one component doesn't arrive in time, everything is slowed down. Building an infrastructure of factories with interdependent specialized production methods—and with workers skilled enough to operate them—can take years.

These tariffs are going to produce winners and they are going to produce losers.

Many once thriving businesses will suddenly start going under, and we are being warned that “the next wave of corporate defaults” is right around the corner.

Donald Trump's global trade war is already priming financial markets for the next wave of corporate defaults. A Bloomberg News measure of distressed debt worldwide swelled the most in at least 15 months this week, sending more than $43 billion of bonds and loans to levels that make it challenging to refinance.

The president had telegraphed well in advance his intention to raise tariffs ahead of the official Apr. 2, announcement. But few had expected Washington to go after so many of its key trading partners with such high duties, especially considering the risk of upending global supply chains that entire U.S. industries rely on.

Some Trump supporters are speculating that President Trump is disrupting the global economy and causing the financial markets to crash on purpose.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

In fact, a video that discussed this theory was shared by Trump himself on Truth Social on Friday. But now we are being told that crashing the financial markets is “not part of an intentional strategy.”

A crashing stock market is not part of an intentional strategy by President Donald Trump, White House National Economic Council director Kevin Hassett told ABC's "This Week" on Sunday. This came after Trump shared a link to a video on his social media platform, Truth Social, which claimed the president was causing the markets to plummet on purpose as part of his broader economic plans.

The video, which initially appeared on TikTok in March, was shared by Trump on Apr. 4, two days after his tariffs announcement.

“Trump is crashing the stock market by 20% this month, but he’s doing it on purpose. ... And it could make you rich” the video said. It continued by adding that such a move by Trump would help “push cash into treasuries, which forces the Fed to slash interest rates in May. ... It also weakens the dollar and drops mortgage rates. Now it’s a wild chess move, but it’s working.”

It is going to be fascinating to see how everything plays out.

By dramatically hiking tariffs, the U.S., China and the European Union are essentially taxing the living daylights out of their citizens.

They will bring in more money, our standard of living will drop quite a bit and economic activity will slow down significantly.

If we do not reverse course, this is a story that is not going to end well.

Is This the Next 'The Chosen'? 'House of David' Blows Past Competition to Take Top Spot

Could "House of David" be the next biblical series to share the gospel with a widespread audience?

After seeing the success of "The Chosen" over the past few years and the continued emergence of more faith-based films and series productions, Christian filmmaking appears to be the hot trend right now. As this good news continues to grow, the new Amazon Prime show, "House of David" just took the top spot as the number one show on the streaming platform.

Pastor Greg Laurie, who has seen this project come to life through and through, took to X where he praised the success of "House of David." He also pointed out how its success is contrary to the failure of Disney's colossal mistake with

“House of David” is now #1 on the Amazon streaming platform!

This is more than just a number—it’s proof that people are hungry for entertainment that’s not only high-quality but also deeply inspirational.

Compare that to the recent disaster of Disney’s woke Snow White remake, which cost over $200 million to produce and bombed at the box office. It’s clear: the world is ready for something better. I thank God for filmmakers like Jon Erwin, Dallas Jenkins, Jon Gunn, Andy Erwin, and others who are leading the charge in a new wave of storytelling—one that honors God and speaks to the soul.

The remarkable success of “House of David” is a powerful reminder that God is moving in the realm of media and entertainment. As hearts grow weary from the empty narratives of culture, faith-based stories that uplift and point to eternal truths are resonating more than ever. Like “The Chosen” before it, “House of David” isn’t just another show—it’s a signpost to a deeper hunger for righteousness, hope and biblical truth in our generation.

In a time when mainstream Hollywood often stumbles under the weight of its own agenda, it’s refreshing to see productions that boldly proclaim the gospel taking center stage. Let this be a call to believers everywhere: the harvest is ripe, even in the entertainment world.

Now more than ever, we need creatives, producers and supporters who are willing to champion stories that glorify God and draw people to Him. The momentum is here—let’s keep pressing forward.

Snow White and the Prophetic Warning Hidden in Plain Sight

Could a Disney movie actually contain a prophetic warning for our generation?

That’s exactly what best-selling author and prophetic voice Jonathan Cahn suggests in his recent message. And no, he’s not joking.

“Is it possible that Snow White could actually contain a prophetic message for our times?” Cahn asks. “A warning even-connected to the end times? Could it actually be revealing a danger that’s affecting this entire generation?”

According to Cahn, the answer is yes—and the message is far more serious than the animated whimsy might suggest.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

A Woke Fairy Tale Gone Off the Rails

In his sharp style, Cahn breaks down the tangled mess of changes Disney made to its upcoming Snow White reboot.

Here’s what he notes:

1. Seven Dwarfs Replaced: “Replace the seven dwarfs with seven people of diversity,” Cahn says. “So it’s now Snow White and the seven people of diversity. The seven DEI—diversity, equity and inclusion—people.”
2. DEI Replacements Replaced: “By putting the DEI inclusion people, they ended up excluding dwarves... So Disney got together and again they came up with another brilliant solution. They would make the seven dwarfs fake dwarfs. Animated dwarfs.”
3. CGI Confusion: “Now the real dwarfs were represented—as long as nobody admitted it was a real dwarf... So the real dwarf was a fake dwarf who only looked like a real dwarf but was a bandit.”
4. Snow White’s New Origin Story: “They made up a new origin story that she was called Snow White because she was born during a snowstorm.”
5. No More Prince: “The actress said... ‘It’s not a love story. And that’s wonderful.’” Cahn notes: “They removed the prince. Imagine if years ago they told you that one day they’d be making Snow White and eliminate the prince.”

6. No More Song: “‘Someday My Prince Will Come’ was replaced by a song about waiting for a wish,” Cahn says. “She’s not waiting for a prince. She’s waiting for a wish... which doesn’t really make sense.”
7. Masculinized Heroine: “Snow White says... ‘I’m not afraid to fight.’ Then Snow White says she was taught to be ‘fearless and brave.’”

Cahn doesn’t hold back: “Snow White has become a revolutionary... She leads a revolution of all the disenfranchised DEI people and all the fake CGI people... and they set up a new monarchy led by—you guessed it—the girl boss fearless leader Snow White.”

In a recent video, Pastor Larry Huch shared a powerful revelation that ties together biblical first fruits, personal transformation and the promises of God. He explained how giving a first fruits offering—especially during this Passover season—isn’t just about sowing from your current harvest, but about preparing for the breakthrough that’s coming.
