

7 Billion Lives at Risk Amid Growing Nuclear Tensions

As Russia and Ukraine mark their 1,000th day of war and Western leaders give the greenlight to use long-range missiles they provided, spearheaded by President Joe Biden, the world is on the brink of nuclear war.

No, this isn't fear-mongering to rile up the masses, this is the threat NATO faces as Russian President Vladimir Putin has said if these missiles are used against Russia, he will consider it an act of war upon Russia by NATO forces who supplied the armaments.

"This is now the time where we really start praying," says prophetic voice Joseph Z of Z Ministries. "I've been praying about this defeat that they experienced, and who is they? I'm talking about the Dems and these wicked lizard, that have, honestly, acted like they are going out peacefully and kind.

"But suddenly, permission is given to this getting permission to send these spears, javelins, arrows, missiles, into the former Soviet Union. And these are USA provided," Z continues.

But what could be the point of this? Why on earth would the current administration knowingly instigate and antagonize a nuclear-capable Russia who has said they are willing to cross that red line?

"So what they are trying to do is hand WW3 to 45/47, and there's even calls now for Biden to step there's calls to say 'put her [Kamala Harris] in,'" Z reveals.

In times of war, we need a wartime leader. Israel had King

David. The United States had General George Washington. If the past three years are any indicator, the Biden-Harris administration is lacking a wartime leader, and the American people just voted to bring one into the White House
