

Are We in a Seven Year Window of Divine Harvest?

Times of distress are opportunities for miracles. People are longing to hear good news. This is our time to pray that people turn and find the Healer in the midst of chaos. Judgment comes so healing can abound, restoration can occur, and our latter may be greater than our former.

Passover 2020 was prophetically significant, as it propelled us into a new era for the church—an era where we will need to put on the full armor of God (Eph. 6) and remain under the covering of the blood of the Lamb, Yeshua. Positionally in the spirit, we mark the doorways of our homes—just as the Israelites did on that fateful night of the first Passover—and step into our spheres of influence and authority.

We must watch, listen, and move only when He tells us to move.

The first seven years of this pey decade (from late 2019 until late 2026) will involve critical campaigns in the war, giving the church an unprecedented window to move in fullness for the harvest of millions of souls.

In both the physical and spiritual realms, the front line of this war will manifest through economic (as well as demonic) power struggles, the realignment of national and geopolitical alliances and the overall fight for control of world systems (trade, finance, economic influence, power, etc.).

The United States is equally at a critical crossroads, and the American church must be ready to let go of the old era—to surrender past glory and the spoils of former wars—and open its hand to receive new revelation that is fresh for a new warring season.

War is ahead! We have seen from this COVID-19 pandemic that we are in a new type of warfare. We must learn to establish bloodlines. We must take up the mantle of this Passover season and walk under the blood of the Lamb as we cross over treacherous and unknown ground.

The Bible is written around harvest cycles. The Lord wants His people to develop and maintain a harvest mentality. He wants us to walk in a mindset of increase and reaping. This is an era when we must decree that what we have sown will come forth and multiply. Call back the bread that you have cast upon the waters. The seeds that have fallen in the earth are ready to break forth into an abundant crop. Plow up your fallow ground. Unlock what has never manifested in your past. Let your sorrows turn to joy. Gain new strength! Rise up and enter this era with a mind to triumph!
