

Gen Z Awakening Reaches Frat House at East Carolina University: 'There's a Revival Going On'

More and more Gen Z-ers on college campuses are turning to Jesus, and now the wave of spiritual awakening has even reached a North Carolina fraternity house at one of the country's top party schools.

It's definitely not your typical place for a night of prayer and worship, but during a recent gathering called the "Night of Hope," many young people on campus decided to give their lives to Christ. Instead of partying together, scores of young students recently came at East Carolina University's Kappa Sigma House to listen intently to the Gospel.

Breaking News. Spirit-Filled Stories. Subscribe to Charisma on YouTube now!

Evangelist Doug Elks explained some key Bible verses to the group: "John 3:16, 'For God so loved the world that He gave His one and only son so that whoever believes in Him, shall not perish, but have eternal life.' Romans 5:8, 'God demonstrates His love in this, while we were still sinners, Christ died for us.'"

The night of prayer, praise and encouragement featured testimonies from Christian athletes, including ECU baseball player Parker Byrd, who lost his leg in a boating accident, before going on to play Division 1.

Get your FREE CHARISMA NEWSLETTERS today! Stay up-to-date with current issues, Holy Spirit news, Christian teachings, Charisma videos & more!

He said, "I had a total of 22 surgeries in 45 days. Obviously, I had my right leg amputated below the knee... honestly, a lot of you guys are probably like, 'man that's awful,' but it's the best thing that's ever happened to me."

Join Charisma Magazine Online to follow everything the Holy Spirit is doing around the world!

He told the crowd that before losing his leg, he lived as a lukewarm Christian.

To read the full story, visit our content partners at CBN News.

Reprinted with permission from . Copyright © 2025 The Christian Broadcasting Network Inc. All rights reserved.