

Jonathan Cahn's Urgent Prophetic Warning: Israel, Iran and the Coming Fire

In a striking prophetic message, New York Times best-selling author Jonathan Cahn warns that recent events involving Iran, Israel and the United States are not random but deeply connected to ancient biblical prophecy, specifically the words of Ezekiel and other end-time scriptures.

Cahn begins by reminding viewers that while Iran's nuclear facilities were recently struck by U.S. forces, the danger is far from over. Intelligence reports suggest Iran had smuggled enriched uranium to secret locations before the strike and continues to operate thousands of centrifuges capable of producing nuclear weapons. "How much they were set back, we don't know," he says, "but it's doubtful that they lost their nuclear capabilities."

According to Cahn, Iran's threat isn't limited to the Middle East. "There are sleeper cells already inside this nation," he says of the U.S., "similar to 9/11, but Iran is far more dangerous than al-Qaeda." He notes that Iran's foreign minister recently visited Russia, which is one of the nation's foreshadowed in Ezekiel 38–39.

The Bible speaks clearly of Iran, known in Scripture as Persia, as a key player in the last days. Cahn highlights that while many ancient nations have vanished, both Israel and Persia exist today—exactly as the Bible prophesied. The book of Ezekiel describes Persia as one of the nations that will form a coalition to attack Israel after its return to the land. "It says in the last days Persia–Iran–is going to be one of those nations that invades Israel," Cahn says. "It's obsessed with destroying the Jewish nation, which is exactly what we would expect."
