'It Happened Again!' Hundreds Baptized in Latest Campus Revival, Now at University of Alabama

A new sign of the ongoing revival among America's young people is being reported out of Alabama. In the latest example of this supernatural move of God, hundreds of students at the University of Alabama gave their lives to Christ and were immediately baptized in a fountain.

"It happened again!" Christian author and speaker Jennie Allen announced on Instagram after the amazing event unfolded.

"Last night at the University of Alabama thousands of students gathered. Hundreds responded to the gospel and hundreds were baptized," Allen shared.

Good Friday: The 7 Last Words of Jesus

As Jesus hung on the cross, struggling painfully for each breath, He uttered seven short, powerful statements showing who He was and what was happening, and encouraging those who would follow Him. It was His last sermon.

1. "Father, forgive them, for they do not know what they are doing" (Luke 23:34b, NIV). Jesus is not only practicing the forgiveness He preached (Matt. 5:44), but He is also asserting His divinity as God who forgives sin (). Beyond that, however, He is announcing the beginning of the New Covenant under which our sins will be forgiven (Jer. 31:33-34).

America Is in Moral Freefall

For many years now, it has been clear that America has been in a steep moral and spiritual decline, despite some genuine revival movements along with some holy pushback against the growing cultural insanity. But two recent examples confirm that we are now in moral freefall.

The first is President Biden's proclamation that March 31, which this year falls on Resurrection (Easter) Sunday, is now "Transgender Day of Visibility."

This is not a poorly timed announcement. It is not even a slap in the face. It is a kick below the belt accompanied by a laugh and a smile. It is as insulting as it is perverse, no matter how much we care for our trans-identified friends and colleagues and want them to experience wholeness and freedom in the Lord.
