Jenny Weaver Warns of the Two Priesthoods Rising in 2024

The new year of 2024 has been prophesied over by lots of different voices and ministry leaders, many of which who have warned about a need to cling to Jesus to avoid coming darkness and deception. But what if this goes even deeper than the basics of everything we've been taught? What if there are two different priesthoods rising up, one that is blessed, and one that is cursed?

In her prophetic word for 2024, Jenny Weaver gave what she considered a heavy, but important, message to the body of Christ for 2024.

"There are two priesthoods. The first priesthood will be cursed. This is a cursed priesthood. This is an evil priesthood. This is a prideful priesthood. Self-serving, they are lovers of filth. They mishandle God's people, and they are defiled before the Lord," Weaver says.

Michael Brown: Woke Won't Work

For many years, I have been predicting a cultural pushback against the radical left, knowing that, at a certain point, people would say, "Enough is enough."

I have documented this in particular when it comes to transgender activism, with people as diverse as Joe Rogan, Bill Maher, Richard Dawkins, J. K. Rowling and Martina Navratilova helping to lead the way.

The Bud Light and Target boycotts have now become cautionary tales, reminding us that your average American does not share these extremist ideas.

Alveda King Remembers Her Uncle MLK Jr. Let Freedom Ring for Life

Every year from January 15 – 22, many Americans and people around the world remember the legacy of my uncle, the Rev. Martin Luther King, Jr., and many also pause to consider the observance of the issue of the sanctity of life during the first month of the year.

As we remember the birthday of my uncle this year, it is important that we remember to honor God, remember the American Dream and value human life from the womb to the tomb.

“I still have a dream, a dream deeply rooted in the American dream—one day this nation will rise up and live up to its creed, ‘We hold these truths to be self evident: that all men are created equal.’” – Martin Luther King Jr.
