Rick Renner's Prophetic Warning of a 2025 Storm: Are You Ready?

As we step into 2025, Rick Renner of Renner Ministries delivers a prophetic word brimming with both challenge and hope. He speaks to the body of Christ with clarity, urging us to brace for a season of intense warfare but also to rise in faith, equipped with God's promises.

Renner begins with a reminder of the apostle Paul's instruction to Timothy in 1 Timothy 1:18: "Remember the prophecies which went before on thee, that thou by them mightest wage a good warfare." He emphasizes that prophetic words are tools for spiritual battle, declaring, "God has given you everything you need to walk in victory in 2025."

Gospel Artist Kirk Franklin Addresses Backlash, Offers Apology

World-renowned gospel music artist Kirk Franklin has made waves not only with his music but also with his response to recent controversies. In a video posted to YouTube, Franklin publicly apologized for actions that offended parts of the Christian community in 2024, particularly during his performance at Jamaica's "Fun in the Son" concert and moments on his Reunion Tour.

Franklin began by addressing his attire at the Jamaican concert, where he performed in a tank top and shorts. His choice drew criticism for being inappropriate for the setting, which celebrated Judeo-Christian values. "I am aware now that my choice of attire... was going to be something that would not come across as disrespectful," Franklin acknowledged. Reflecting on the unintended impact, he added, "I sincerely apologize because I never want to get to a place that I can't learn...that I'm always being humble enough and submissive enough to hear people and their concerns about anything being bigger than the message of Jesus."

Franklin emphasized that his intent was never to overshadow the Gospel message. "It doesn't matter what my goal and intent is, if I'm louder than the message of Jesus, then I failed," he said, highlighting a perspective of humility and accountability rarely seen in the entertainment world.

Unlocking the Language of Heaven: The Mystery of Angelic Tongues

In a recent teaching, evangelist Perry Stone delved into a fascinating topic in the Bible—the "tongue of angels" mentioned in 1 Corinthians 13:1.

"Though I speak with the tongues of men and of angels and have not love, I am a sounding brass or a tinkling cymbal," Stone quotes, pointing to the apostle Paul's declaration. According to Stone, this verse opens a line of discussion not only on the necessity of love but also on the spiritual dimensions of language.
