

Powerful Worship Breaks Out at Capitol Building

Washington, D.C., remains filled with worship in the most unlikely of places.

In a post on X, Pastor Travis Johnson shared about the powerful worship that broke out at the Capitol building as Christian leaders gathered together, singing the Doxology, with hands lifted to heaven. He wrote, “Worship broke out tonight at the U.S. Capitol.”

The National Faith Advisory Board also shared footage of a tour that the faith leaders took, which had the caption, “Most pastors don’t know the true history of America. If you don’t know true history you won’t know the value of religious liberty.”
