

The Dragon's Prophecy: Ancient Prophecies and Modern Terror Collide

The Temple Mount: The Flashpoint Behind October 7

"Behind Oct. 7 was actually the Temple Mount," says Jonathan Cahn in his prophetic revelation that inspired the new documentary, The Dragon's Prophecy. "Months before Oct. 7 there was an intention that there were Jewish worshippers who wanted to go on the mount and celebrate Passover on the mountain. All hell broke loose."

That simple event, Cahn says, was more than politics or religion. It was a sign. "The nation of Israel is a resurrected nation. So what if there was going to be a resurrection of another people, an enemy people of Israel?"

According to Cahn, that ancient battle has been revived in our time. What happened on Oct. 7, 2023 when Hamas terrorists invaded Israel was not just a geopolitical crisis. It was a prophetic warning unfolding in real time.

Hamas and the Face of Evil

When Dinesh D'Souza first began working on The Dragon's Prophecy he said one thing immediately stood out, the horror Hamas proudly displayed. "The first thing that struck me about it was the fact that Hamas itself broadcast these atrocities," D'Souza said. "When we think back to World War II, the Nazis put all the death camps outside of Germany because they were ashamed of it. They didn't want to show this to the German people. They were not in that sense proud of it. But Hamas was. They livestreamed a lot of it."
