

WATCH: Jonathan Cahn's Prophetic Warning About the Consequences of Bowing to the Spirit of Baal

The parallels between the children of Israel and modern-day America are more than uncanny, they're frightening.

"We, too, have profaned the sacred and made sacred the profane," Rabbi Jonathan Cahn said at the Washington Man of Prayer event, which addressed members of Congress at the U.S. Capitol.

And now, America has ignored all prophetic warnings and is invoking the judgment of God.

"If America should ever turn away from God and His ways, should ever disregard His eternal rules of order and right, then His blessings and the smiles of heaven will be removed from the land," Cahn says.

We're seeing the absence of blessings as the Supreme Court looks to redefine marriage, as religious freedoms are stripped from Christian business owners, as prominent Christian icons disregard a biblical foundation.

But there is hope. Watch the video to see how Cahn says we can appeal to heaven.
