

Wormwood Prophecy: Increase in Space Defense Correlates to Asteroid of the Bible

Tom Horn, author and chief executive officer of SkyWatchTV, tackles the tough subject of end-times theology in his new book, The Wormwood Prophecy.

Horn, a publishing and media veteran, examines asteroid threats to Earth, including Apophis, which is named after the Egyptian god of chaos and is a topic of serious discussion among experts in planetary defense. Horn asks questions such as the following:

–Is the Wormwood star from Revelation 8 already headed toward Earth?

–Are NASA and high-level government officials aware of an asteroid that is on a collision course with our planet?

–Do the prophecies from ancient cultures and religions across the globe all point to a catastrophic planetary event that has scientists and politicians taking extreme preventative measures under the public radar?

Horn proposes that Earth is not currently prepared for the scope of impact that may be around the corner.

“This book spans NASA reports, the book of Revelation and everything in between. I hope it challenges readers’ end-times theology and helps sharpen their understanding in light of current events,” said Horn.

Traditional scholarly interpretation claims the biblical Wormwood from Revelation 8 will be an asteroid. Others suggest that the eschatological poisoning of one-third of all Earth’s waters and the devastation of our planet’s ecology might not be as detectable as we may believe; it could hit suddenly and without warning, like an angel of God appearing in the sky with fire and light, bringing judgment in an instant.

Or does the Bible predict something else?
