

Are You About to Marry The Wrong Person?

One the biggest fears many people experience is the fear of marrying the wrong person.

In a recent message, Alexander Pagani discussed the frustration that many people experience when they feel as though they've married the wrong person, and the discernment needed before entering into a marriage with someone.

"Nothing is more frustrating than being married to the wrong person," Pagani says. "You want to do ministry, and they want to go home. Texting you in the car [to] hurry up."

Pagani points out that people sometimes avoid getting the advice or opinion about the person they are dating from a spiritual mentor because they already know that they will be advised to step away from their boyfriend or girlfriend.

"My heart [is] breaking for people and I go, 'why [did] you marry them then? Why are you marrying them? Because you never asked apostle's advice because you knew I was going to tell you no,'" Pagani says.

He also points out that people will then say that the Lord told them someone was the one for them, even speaking in tongues, which makes it impossible for others to say anything differently.
