

Brazil's President Addresses 3 Million Attendees at March for Jesus

Brazil's President Jair Bolsonaro addressed 3 million attendees at Sao Paulo's March for Jesus last month.

"You were decisive in helping change the destiny of Brazil," Bolsonaro said. "It is very good to be among friends. And even better when they are friends with God in their hearts."

Conservative commentator Steve Turley says Bolsonaro's presence could be indicative of a rise of a global Christian civilization.

Watch the video to hear Turley explain.