

Christian Vlogger: Women Are Human Before They Are Temptation

The Billy Graham Rule, long accepted among evangelicals, tells men to avoid spending any time alone with women who are not their wives. The rule ostensibly helps men avoid temptation to sin. But Millennial vlogger Joseph Solomon says that, rather than fixing the problem, it just created the mentality in young men that women are potential temptations before they are people. He sets the record straight and makes the argument for platonic male-female relationships in this thought-provoking video.
